GERMANY IS INVADED MANY KILLED IN RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

REDS REPULSE REBEL FORCES AT PETROGRAD

Headquarters Of Anti-Reds
Near Moscow Bom-
barded.
100,000 ON STRIKE
Concessions Are Offered
To Rebels By Russian
Government.

Paris, March 8.—Official dispatches received here during the
afternoon confirmed that the Russian anti-bolshevik rebels
have been repulsed by the soviet
troops at both Petrograd and Moscow.
The Moscow railway is still
functioning normally.
According to official advices
received here the insurgents captured only one soviet commis-
saire when they took the Kron-
stadt fortress.

London, March 8.—"Several hundred persons were killed at Moscow
when soviet artillery massed in the hills near the city, bombarded the
workers headquarters," said a Central News dispatch from Helsing-
fors this afternoon. "In addition
to the killed large numbers were
wounded. The bombardment followed the declaration of a general
strike on the part of the workers
to enforce their demand for the creation of a constituent assembly.
The strikers at Moscow are reported to number over 100,000 at present."

Soviet troops that were ordered
against the insurgent garrison of Kronstadt attempted to cross on the
ice. The cruiser Petropavlovsk
which is in the hands of the rebels
opened fire upon the red troops
putting them to flight.
Two Revolutions
"There are really two revolutions in progress against the Lenine-Trotsky regime," said a
Helsingfors dispatch to the Daily
Express. "One has its center at Petrograd and the other is directed
from Moscow. The Petrograd revolt is a movement on the part of
the 'right' political party whose members are discontented with soviet rule and are demanding freedom of speech and the press and the right of individual trade. Moderate
socialists and discontented workmen joined the rebels. The Moscow
movement is being carried out by
the 'left' political party which is
dissatisfied with the leadership of Lenine and Trotsky.
"It is improbable that the revolutionary movements now under way
in Russia will succeed in overthrowing either Lenine or Trotsky. Those
who look for the present revolution to be successful or for the
early downfall of bolshevism in Russia are likely to be disappointed."

Offer Suggestions
The Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Helsingfors reported
that the soviet had offered far
percent communists in personnel.
The Petrograd soviet has proposed peace negotiations to the Kron-stadt insurgents. The insurgent
leaders at the fortress said they
were willing to receive a deputation so long as it was only fifteen
percent communists in personnel.
"Part of Kronstadt and Livynos
are in flames," said another Hel-
singfors dispatch to the Daily Express this afternoon. "The garrison
at Krasnaja Gorka has joined the insurgents. The city of Petrograd
and the forts on the outskirts have
been under heavy bombardment.
Trotsky and Kameneff have arrived at Petrograd with light artillery
to reinforce the forts at Sestroretsk, Livynos and Tarhovka."
"The bombardment at Petrograd
Monday was very severe," said a
third Helsingfors dispatch to the Daily Express. "It began at 35
o'clock in the morning with 35
shells dropping every minute.
About nine o'clock it weakened.
"There was intense fighting in
the streets of Petrograd during
which machine guns were used.
"Bolshevik soldiers are manning
the frontier between Russia and Finland fearing assistance from Finnish 'whites'."

London, March 8.—It is reported in Helsingfors that anti-bolshevik insurgents and striking workmen have seized Odessa," said a Central News
dispatch from Helsingfors this afternoon. The Moscow soviet was reported to be sending troops to retake the city.

BRUSSELS, March 8.—A regiment of Belgian troops left for the Rhine today to reinforce the allied troops.

"Approximate Disarmament" Pres. Harding's Offer for Peace

Nation Willing to Join With Others In Abolishing Excessive Armament, Declares President—Republican Leaders Differ in Policies.

Washington, March 8.—"Approximate disarmament," will be the professor of President Warren G. Harding
for world peace.
The phrase was carefully chosen by
the president as he stood upon the
threshold of the main doorway of the White House early this morning.
The president stressed the adjective "approximate" with special emphasis as bareheaded and smiling, he
faced the newspaper correspondent
pressing him for a commitment on
disarmament.
The inflection he bestowed upon it
left no doubt as to his meaning.
What he said was brief and pointed,
but in an instant he conjured up the
American nation, unwilling to be dis-
armed or unprepared for defense, but
willing to join with other nations in
abolishing excessive armament.

Republican leaders of congress were
still rolling away in well polished
limousines from the brilliantly illuminated portico as the president
frankly discussed the long conference
he had with them since early evening.
There had been differences of opinion between the Republican leaders
with whom he had conferred at dinner and afterwards. He made no attempt at concealment of the fact that Republican members of the senate
finance committee and the house ways
and means committee had differed as
to whether tariff duties or domestic
taxation should be revised first when
the new congress convenes. But he indicated he was hopeful that an
agreement would be reached after a careful canvass of the senate and
house is made.

The president made it plain he did
not desire the impression should go
forth that it was his purpose to consult only a small group of men who
are the recognized Republican leaders
of congress.
He wanted to sound out the sentiment of the full Republican majority
of congress to ascertain the views of senators and congressmen as to what should be done to meet the
grave domestic problems confronting
the country.

STATE INCOME TAX BILL IS INTRODUCED INTO OHIO HOUSE

Provides One Per Cent Tax
On All Incomes Up
to $4,000.

Columbus, O., March 8.—A state
income tax bill supported by
ation, has been introduced in the house by Rep. Gordon of Logan County. The measure provides for a 1 percent tax on all incomes up
to $4,000 and 2 percent in excess
of that amount. Single men would be allowed a $500 exemption on their incomes and married men
$1,000, plus $200 for each child.
Of the tax thus raised, 75 per cent
would go to the municipality or
township in which the tax payers
reside and the other 25 percent to
the state treasury. In order to avoid double taxation incomes from
real estate would be exempted up
to the amount of all general property taxes.
The governors' citizens taxation
committee is expected to make its report to Gov. Davis today. Among
other recommendations, the committee is expected to urge enactment of an income tax measure after the state constitution has been amended so as to break the uniform
rule of taxation.

TROTSKY APPOINTED MILITARY DICTATOR

TWENTY-SEVEN THOUSAND TROOPS MARCHING ON PETROGRAD

London, March, 8.—Leon Trotsky,
minister of war in the soviet government at Moscow has been appointed
military dictator of Russia with unlimited powers to put down the counter-revolutionary movements which have sprung up in various sections of
the country, according to an Exchange
Telegraph dispatch from Helsingfors
today. Trotsky is said to be on his way to Petrograd where the insurgents
have been making their strongest
fight against soviet power.

Thirty seven thousand soldiers and
sailors are said to be marching upon
Petrograd from the fortress of Kronstadt. At last reports
the fortress of Kronstadt was held by the 'whites' or antibolsheviks.

PACKERS WILL CUT WAGES OF WORKERS 12 P.C.

Armour and Swift Companies To Reduce Wages.

STRIKE PROBABLE

Unions Declare They Will Not Accept Proposed Cuts.

Chicago, March 8.—Wages of employes of the two largest packing establishments in the United States—
Armour and Company and Swift and Company—will be reduced effective March 14, according to official announcement made today. Workers who are paid by the hour will be asked to accept a cut of eight cents an hour
while those paid by piece work rates
will be reduced approximately 12 1-2 percent.

The basic eight hour day will be eliminated in the Armour and Swift plants.
Although Armour and Swift are the only packing concerns to make announcement of contemplated wage cuts, it is understood that other packing concerns are preparing to take similar action.

The movement affects the plants of Swift and Armour throughout the entire country. In Chicago alone, approximately 35,000 workers are concerned.
That the announcement of wage reductions will bring about a strike in the packing industry was regarded as highly probable today. Leaders in the packing house employes unions already have declared that they will not accept a reduction in wages.

A conference of employes will begin at Omaha, Neb., tomorrow at which measures to protect the interest of the workers will be discussed. In view of the announcement today of wage reductions in the two large plants in the industry and conference at Omaha, assumes added importance. Labor leaders have promised to discuss plans of mediation before planning strike action but it is certain that talk of strike
will be out at the Omaha meeting.

been completed without incident. The Germans made no re-

PRESIDENT EBERT APPEALS TO PEOPLE TO REMAIN CALM

Tense Undercurrent Of
Feeling Manifest In Duesseldorf.

Berlin, March 8.—President
Ebert has appealed to the German
people to remain calm in the face
of the allied advance from the Rhine. The German cabinet held
a session at midnight. It was reported that Dr. Walter Simons, the
foreign minister was to be upheld
entirely for his course at London,
in rejecting the allied demand for 226,000,000 gold marks inden-
mity.

According to news received here
the allied troops were under orders
to begin moving all along the Rhine Tuesday.

The president of the Duesseldorf
municipal council issued a proclamation asking that order be maintained. There is a tense under-current of feeling however.

A detachment of French cavalry
reached Bendorf, four miles above Coblenz on the right bank of the Rhine, Monday night and demanded quarters for 600 troops. The Germans prepared barracks to ac-

PROHIBITION 'LID' REMOVED ON BEER

PHYSICIANS MAY PRESCRIBE
BEER AS A MEDI-CINE.

Washington, March 8.—The prohibitive "lid" was removed today on
"beer with a kick" for medicinal purposes.

The department of justice ruled
that physicians are authorized under
the Volstead law to prescribe beer,
when in their judgment it will prove beneficial. The beer ruling was drafted
before the new administration
came into office and bears the signature of A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney
general.

Beer now takes a status equal to
that of wine as a curative agent
legally listed by the government and
physicians will be allowed wide latitude by directing its use by patients
when such use will aid recovery in cases of illness or convalescence.

Church at Carlock, Ill., recently started the Legislature here by delivering the shortest invocation on record

brief," explained the girl pastor. And Senator Simon E. Lantz, a member of Miss Brown's congregation, added
that she is more energetic in her work
among her flock than most male brethren.

papers today printed bitter protests
against the allies' indemnity penalties
and the advance of the allied troops
on the Rhine.

a definite verdict on the new situation which has arisen over indemnity
until the foreign minister, Walter Simons, arrives from London and reports.

cupation of Duisburg began about 1
o'clock.

chise provides for a rate of five

been paying six cents under the

FAMOUS "FRAME-UP" TRIAL IS STARTED; BIG FUND RAISED

Dedham, Mass. — Bartholomew Vanzetti, an Italian accomplished in the arts of public speaking and writing, and his young friend, Nicola Sacco, were placed on trial today for murder and highway robbery in cases that have assumed nationwide and international importance.

A special venire of 500 jurymen had been drawn when Vanzetti and Sacco were brought to the bar in Norfolk County Superior Court before Judge Webster Thayer. Selection of a jury was expected to occupy several days.

Vanzetti and Sacco are accused of being responsible for the death of Frederic A. Parmenter, paymaster of the Slater & Morrell shoe factory at South Braintree, and of Alessandro Baradelli, a native of Waterbury, Conn., a constable and special messenger of the company. The men were killed by auto-bandits who grabbed a bag of $15,000 the factory payroll and escaped, shooting up South Braintree as they went.

Italian societies, various labor bodies and friends of the two defendants claim they are the victims of a "frame up" as a sequel to what they term "the violent campaign of lawlessness of the Department of Justice," which culminated May 3, 1920, in the tragic death of Andrea Salsedo, who fell fourteen stories to death in New York while a prisoner of United States Secret Service men.

The Vanzetti and Sacco defense committee, which has raised thousands of dollars throughout the country for a defense fund for the two men, charges that Vanzetti and Sacco incurred official enmity because they took prompt steps for the release of Robert Ellis, held for several months with Salsedo when he plunged to the New York pavement.

Story of Crime

April 15, 1920, six automobile bandits armed with repeating rifles and automatics, descended upon South Braintree. Paymaster Parmenter was shot dead. Officer Baradelli was fatally wounded and the $15,000 payroll was seized.

The bandits were attacked by several men who were standing on the sidewalk near the Slater and Morrell shoe factory. Just as the firing commenced a green colored automobile which had been standing nearby came up and the holdup men jumped aboard.

Fusillade of Bullets

From the automobile came a fusillade of bullets which sent hundreds of persons to cover. Several narrowly escaped being struck by the almost steady volley which the bandits poured from the guns as they sought to clear the roadways. Girls employed in a South Braintree shoe factory were thrown into a panic when two bullets crashed through the windows from which they had witnessed the shooting. A gate tender at the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad crossing dodged in back of his gate house in time to avoid being struck by a bullet which was sent in his direction when he attempted to lower the gates to block the progress of the fleeing bandits. Up the street a shoe salesman tried to get the number of the death car but a bullet was sent in his direction and he dodged to cover. Police in another car gave chase. The trail led to Holbrook, but ere it was lost. The murder car was found a few days later abandoned in the woods near Bridgewater. The bandits had entered another automobile after leaving the one in which they had shot up South Braintree.

On May 6 Vanzetti with his friend Sacco, was taken from an electric car on the way to Brockwater to see an automobile which had been left in a garage under suspicious circumstances. Both men had obtained passports to go to Italy.

Vanzetti was placed on trial in

Plymouth Court, charged with attempt to murder Paymaster Cox in The Bridgewater shoe factory payroll holdup of December 1919. He was convicted by a jury and was sentenced to serve from twelve to fifteen years in prison. Vanzetti was taken to the State prison at Charlestown.

Are "Positively Identified"

Later Vanzetti and Sacco were "positively identified" by citizens of South Braintree as two of the bandits in the shoe factory payroll robbery and murder at that place. Gun shells were found in the car at West Bridgewater and other evidence against the men was brought out. The gun shells figured in Vanzetti's trial at Plymouth. The Vanzetti and Sacco defense committee allege that certain shells used as evidence were tampered with, that after the jury was locked up one of the jurors opened a shell and found it contained buckshot instead of bird shot as claimed. On the ground of "improprieties in the jury room" a new trial has been asked for Vanzetti at Plymouth.

Vanzetti claims he was selling fish about Plymouth on the day of the Bridgewater holdup. Eighteen Italians at Plymouth testified to seeing him there that day.

Both Vanzetti and Sacco claim they were far from South Braintree on the day of the holdup and murder there.

Fred H. Moore, for many years counsel for labor unions and attorney in the famous Ettor-Giovanitti trial in 1912 is in charge of the Vanzetti and Sacco defense. He is assisted by William J. Callahan of Brockton.

LESOUD NAMED AS ALL-STAR TIMBER BY SPORT WRITER

Captain "Bill" LeSourd, right forward on Central High School's basketball team, that made such a stir in the annual interscholastic basketball tournament at Ohio Wesleyan, Delaware last week, has been named forward on the mythical all-Southern second team, by Armour Tarbell, sporting editor of the Ohio Wesleyan University Transcript, the college newspaper.

The Transcript is acknowledged as the only paper in the state that can make the selection, and on account of this authority much interest is attached to the selection. Dayton players drew all of the places on the mythical first team, Keefe and Klee of Steele, drawing the forwards, Harry Schwab of Stivers, the center position, and Seibert, of Steele and Harvey, Schwab of Stivers, the guards.

Captain LeSourd of the local quintet was named right forward on the second team as a running mate to Morgan of Cambridge. Butler of Steele was picked as center on the second team, and Stevenson of Stivers and Harlow of Steele on the guards. The third team selection is Armstrong of Greenfield, right forward; Davis of Columbus North left forward; Campbell of Delaware, center; Highwarden of Delaware, a col-

Paul Boxwell, sturdy guard on the blue and white quintet, was given honorable mention by the Wesleyan sport writer. Among others who won honorable mention among the 78 teams, and 546 players who participated in the games are: Forwards, Springer of Crooksville; Freeman of Canal Winchester, and Pocock of Stivers; Centers, Showers of Crooksville; Becking of Urbana Rural; Guards, Bowen, Canal Winchester; Boxwell of Xenia, and Stroup of Greenfield. In the five games played Boxwell of the local team, only permitted his opponents to secure three field goals, all of them being secured in the last two games. In the first three games, Boxwell's opponent did not get a field goal, while he was annexing seven with a total of nine for the series of five games. Captain LeSourd secured 14 field goals, and tossed 12 fouls for a total of 40 points during the five games.

In announcing his all-Southern selection Tarbell said: "The teams from the Southern division on the whole were not up to the standard set by the northern teams this year."

Chicago, Ill.—"I was always tired, my head always ached, and my back ached until I could hardly stand the pain. I doctored for years, and the doctor said nothing but an operation would help me, and that I could not have children. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles of it and it helped me wonderfully, and I now have a fine baby boy, thanks to what your medicine did for me in restoring my health. I can highly recommend the Compound to all women who suffer from female ills."—Mrs. Wm. Reiss, 304 Willow St., Chicago, Ill.

Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a very nervous condition, was irregular, and could not have any children. I took doctor's medicine without success, and he advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your booklets and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon felt benefitted by its use, became regular, and now we have a fine baby girl after having been married nine years. I am always glad to recommend Lydia E. ## JOLLIES OF 1921 DELIGHTS LARGE AUDIENCE MONDAY

"The Jollies of 1921," presented before a crowded house at the Opera House Monday night, was a distinct triumph to the well-trained cast that presented it, and the Joe Bren Production Company of Chicago, which had charge of the direction and staging of the offering.

The Jollies, which is a combination of minstrel and musical show, was presented under the auspices and for the benefit of Joseph P. Foody Post No. 95, American Legion. The piece started promptly on time, did not lag a minute, the intermission was short, and the entire presentation was over by 10:30 o'clock. The performance will be repeated Tuesday night, starting promptly at eight o'clock.

With due credit to last year's Jollies performance, the production staged Monday night can be said to be the best that the Joe Bren Company has yet offered local patrons.

John Webb as interlocutor was an easy and gracious host to the guests he was entertaining at his winter home in Florida. These guests included Mrs. Donna Lane, and the Misses Dorothy Ledbetter, Frances Loyd, Anna Kester, Helen Ford, Marjorie Clark, Doris Whittington, Mary McFadden, Helen Evans, Dorothy Clark, Louise Keyes, Helen Hurley, Laura John, Thelma Routzong, Helen Wike, Lois Simson and C. K. Horen, Guy Pillsbury, Paul Whitt, Harold Whitt, Lawrence Lane, Gene Wade, Julian Keyes and Morton Cresswell.

The opening chorus was "We're Delighted," and was followed by a delightful ballad, "Starland," sung by Mrs. Donna Lane, whose trained voice pleasingly interpreted the melody. The minstrel men, introducing the guests furnished the biggest part of the entertainment. "They included, as comedians, Roy C. Hayward, H. E. Kiernan, Roy C. Hayward, Fritz Haller, Forest Huxley, C. H. Minor, Guy Toms, John Kiernan and William Hupman as balladists, Frank L. Johnson and George Sogden, and as harmonists, R. E. Horen, Roy Ireland, Major Campbell, L. E. Fries, Jacob Gelp and James Leachy.

Clever black-face by-play, besprinkled with local hits, furnished plenty of comedy from this branch of the entertainment. The song numbers were timely and well placed, offering a variety of ballad and jazz that was evidently pleasing to the audience from the rounds of applause received. Fritz Haller sang "My Little Bimbo," a jazz number that drew much applause. Frank Johnson sang "Old Pal, Why Don't You Answer Me" and George Sogden, "I Don't Have to Die to Go to Heaven," both possessing exceedingly pleasing voices and delivering their songs well.

"Oh Mammy," sung by Guy Toms, was one of the song hits of the first part, and "All She Could Say Was Umh, Hum," by Forest Huxley, offered not only melody but plenty of action for that exceedingly clever black face pantomimist. "Some One Else, Not Me," Bert Williams' hit, was cleverly rendered by H. E. Kiernan, the "grand old man" who won much applause and Roy C. Hayward was tried out answering encores to which he fitted clever parodies on songs like "Sweet Mamma, Tree Top Tall" the song hit of Lessee Whites.

The minstrel fore part closed with an exceedingly clever novelty, "The Wedding March in Rag Time," sung by Miss Doris Whittington, with appropriate dance steps, and pictured later by the black face comedians, with H. E. Kiernan as the bride, Fritz Haller as the groom, John Kiernan as the bride's father, Slim Minor as the Parson, Roy Hayward and Forest Huxley as the brides maids and William Hupman and Guy Toms as the groomsmen.

The twelve minute intermission was followed by a clever and comical skit, "Aboard the Buffet Diner, on the Laughland Limited," which won much applause with Roy C. Hayward as the waiter, and Mrs. Donna Lane, Major Campbell, Ernest Fries and Morton Cresswell taking speaking parts, that wound up with the "Jazz Menu."

The song and dance novelty, "Longing," led by Miss Frances Loyd, who led the popular number "Peachy" last year, was a distinct feature of the folio. Miss Loyd has a pleasing voice and was assisted in the number by the Misses Dorothy Ledbetter, Anna Kester, Helen Ford, Marjorie Clark, Doris Whittington and Mary McFadden and Guy Pillsbury, Paul Whitt, Harold Whitt, Lawrence Lane, Gene Wade and Julian Keyes. The number was repeatedly encored.

"Up and Down Main Street," with Julian Keyes and H. E. Kiernan, offered clever vaudeville and local hits, that wound up with the presentation of the "Awkward Squad," a screamingly funny demonstration of "how not to be a soldier," in which the black face men took part. The final scene showed the foyer of the Xenia Club in New York City, opening with the Fox Trot Ball, in which the characters were costumed in the dress of different nations. "The Marvel of the Age," was presented in the person of Frank L. Johnson, as Prince Ali Ben Boozie, with Jacob Gelp his manager, and they furnished real comedy by a take-off on the mind-reading experts who infest the stage, with a number of local cracks that drew laughs from the audience. The offering wound up with a Grand Finale, "Songs of the Past," led by Mrs. Donna Lane, Miss Frances Loyd and Forest Huxley.

The play was directed by Charles Correll, who relieved L. L. Blanchette, the original instructor, and they deserve commendation for the piece, with entertainment committee of the Legion, consisting of William Hupman, Guy Toms and Bert Whittington who made it possible.

GREENSBURG MACHINIS T DROPS A THOUSAND DOLLARS EASY

Spent His Money Uselessly Trying Different Remedies to Rid Himself of Digestive Troubles, But Had No Success Until He Tried Nerv-Worth, and This Soon Ended Indigestion.

"I have spent at least a thousand dollars in an endeavor to rid myself of indigestion and stomach trouble, which I have had for 20 years, but got no results. My stomach and digestion, together with extreme nervousness, caused me to lose much valuable time. For the last 11 years I have been a machinist foreman of the Kelly-Jones Co., of Greensburg, and my time was worth money. I was compelled to lay off 10 weeks not long ago. Doctors said they could give me only temporary relief. Finally I saw Nerv-Worth advertised, and determined to try it, and I am glad to say that now after using only part of a bottle, I am no longer troubled with indigestion or nervousness, and I have gained in weight instead of losing weight, as formerly. I can eat anything I want when I want it, and it thoroughly agrees with me. I most cheerfully recommend Nerv-Worth to all."

All druggists. Three sizes—35c, 70c, $1.40. Largest size is most economical.

LAST FRIDAY'S GREAT EVENT WAS SO MOMENTOUS IT JUSTIFIES FURTHER CONSIDERATION.

A broad-shouldered American gentleman, God-fearing, humble and unpretentious, stood bareheaded in the glint of a brilliant sun and took the oath as twenty-ninth President of the United States. Not fewer than fifty thousand of his compatriots, clustered over whole acres of the Capitol, looked on while Warren Gamaliel Harding swore fealty to the constitution. They were participants in an event designedly devoid of pomp, yet impressive in the majesty of its simplicity.

The gods who cause March winds to blow were uncommonly kind. On many an inauguration day in times gone by they have raged and fumed. Once they sent an incoming President to the White House with diphtheria and death as his portion a month later. But last Friday played the gentlest of breezes, conspiring with the sun to give Ohio's distinguished son an atmosphere setting without compare.

Mr. Harding evoked his first outburst of approval when he dwelt upon "the wisdom of our inherited policy of noninvolvement in Old World affairs." Thenceforward every expression along that line drew a crescendo of approbation. "We seek no part in directing the destinies of the Old World. We do not mean to be entangled. We will accept no responsibility except as our own conscience and judgment, in each instance, may determine." The multitude, stretching a thousand feet away to the Congressional Library in front and to the Senate and House office buildings on the right and left, chorused its approval to that unequivocal statement of policy. It was the pinnacle of Mr. Harding's address. He manifestly meant it to be, for his voice, ringing clear and sped afar by the amplifying apparatus, now was pitched to a strong and confident key, while his right arm was poised in forceful gesture.

Except for the formalities which are properly devised to give dignity and meaning to the occasion, it is to the everlasting credit of the American people that this passing of supreme authority from one man to another goes on along such simple lines that the very revolutionary character of the change when the leader of one great party succeeds the spokesman of another is marked by nothing but the good-natured amenities that should obtain among a people in control of themselves and of their destinies. Without menace or threat of violence and without any break in the continuity of government, that lives and functions no matter what happens, the inauguration typifies the very sublimation of the American idea; the rule of the majority through the free exercise of the ballot.

WE MIGHT BE "SMARTER" IF NOT TOO LAZY.

You will recall the inspiring story of Elihu Burritt, "the learned blacksmith." On account of his father's long illness, the boy had to remain at home without much schooling. He was apprenticed to a blacksmith at sixteen and took that work as his trade. With a great passion for reading and an extraordinary aptitude for languages, he found time to attend the little village school, and even secured some educational advantages at New Haven, the seat of Yale University. He read all the books in the village library and as many others as he could borrow or buy; he mastered Greek, Latin, French, German, Spanish and Italian; and at the age of thirty could read nearly fifty languages. How did he find time for all this? He read and studied with a book open before him as he worked at the forge; and his leisure time at home was devoted to study. With a great store of knowledge at his command, Burritt finally took to lecturing, and afterwards traveled extensively in this country and in Europe on behalf of universal peace and human brotherhood. He organized peace congresses in England and on the continent; wrote pamphlets and books on the subject of Peace, and even started a newspaper in furtherance of his noble humanitarian views. He was honored by American universities and received the post of consul at an English port for several years. But all his learning and all the honors which he gained were the result of his stern determination to know the best thoughts set down by the wisest men of all ages. Not many of us, like him, possess a remarkable talent for languages; but we all have good average minds which need a great deal of cultivation. And we can all secure a liberal education by making use of the right books in an economical way. In this connection let us recall the homely advice of Lincoln's mother, early impressed upon the mind of young Abraham: "Larn all ye kin. Be of some account!"

Spooning atop Fifth Avenue busses has been officially recognized in New York as a legitimate form of sport, and we suppose that in the future signs reading "Osculations permitted only on the first five rows" will be prominently displayed.

March has come in like a lamb, and in the interest of woolen goods and spring it is hoped that the weatherman will not see fit to change its shape before the end of the month.

While we have not yet seen that first Robin, we have been certain that we have heard one every morning for the past week, but then we are more familiar with cat calls than bird calls and we may be mistaken.

Rain is necessary for all life, but how will the ex-Kaiser survive a reignless old age?

The early bird catches the worm, but there seem to be a good many late ones who apparently never go hungry.

There are a good many kinks to be ironed out of the nation's affairs so we suppose that Harding will construe his job to be a pressing matter.

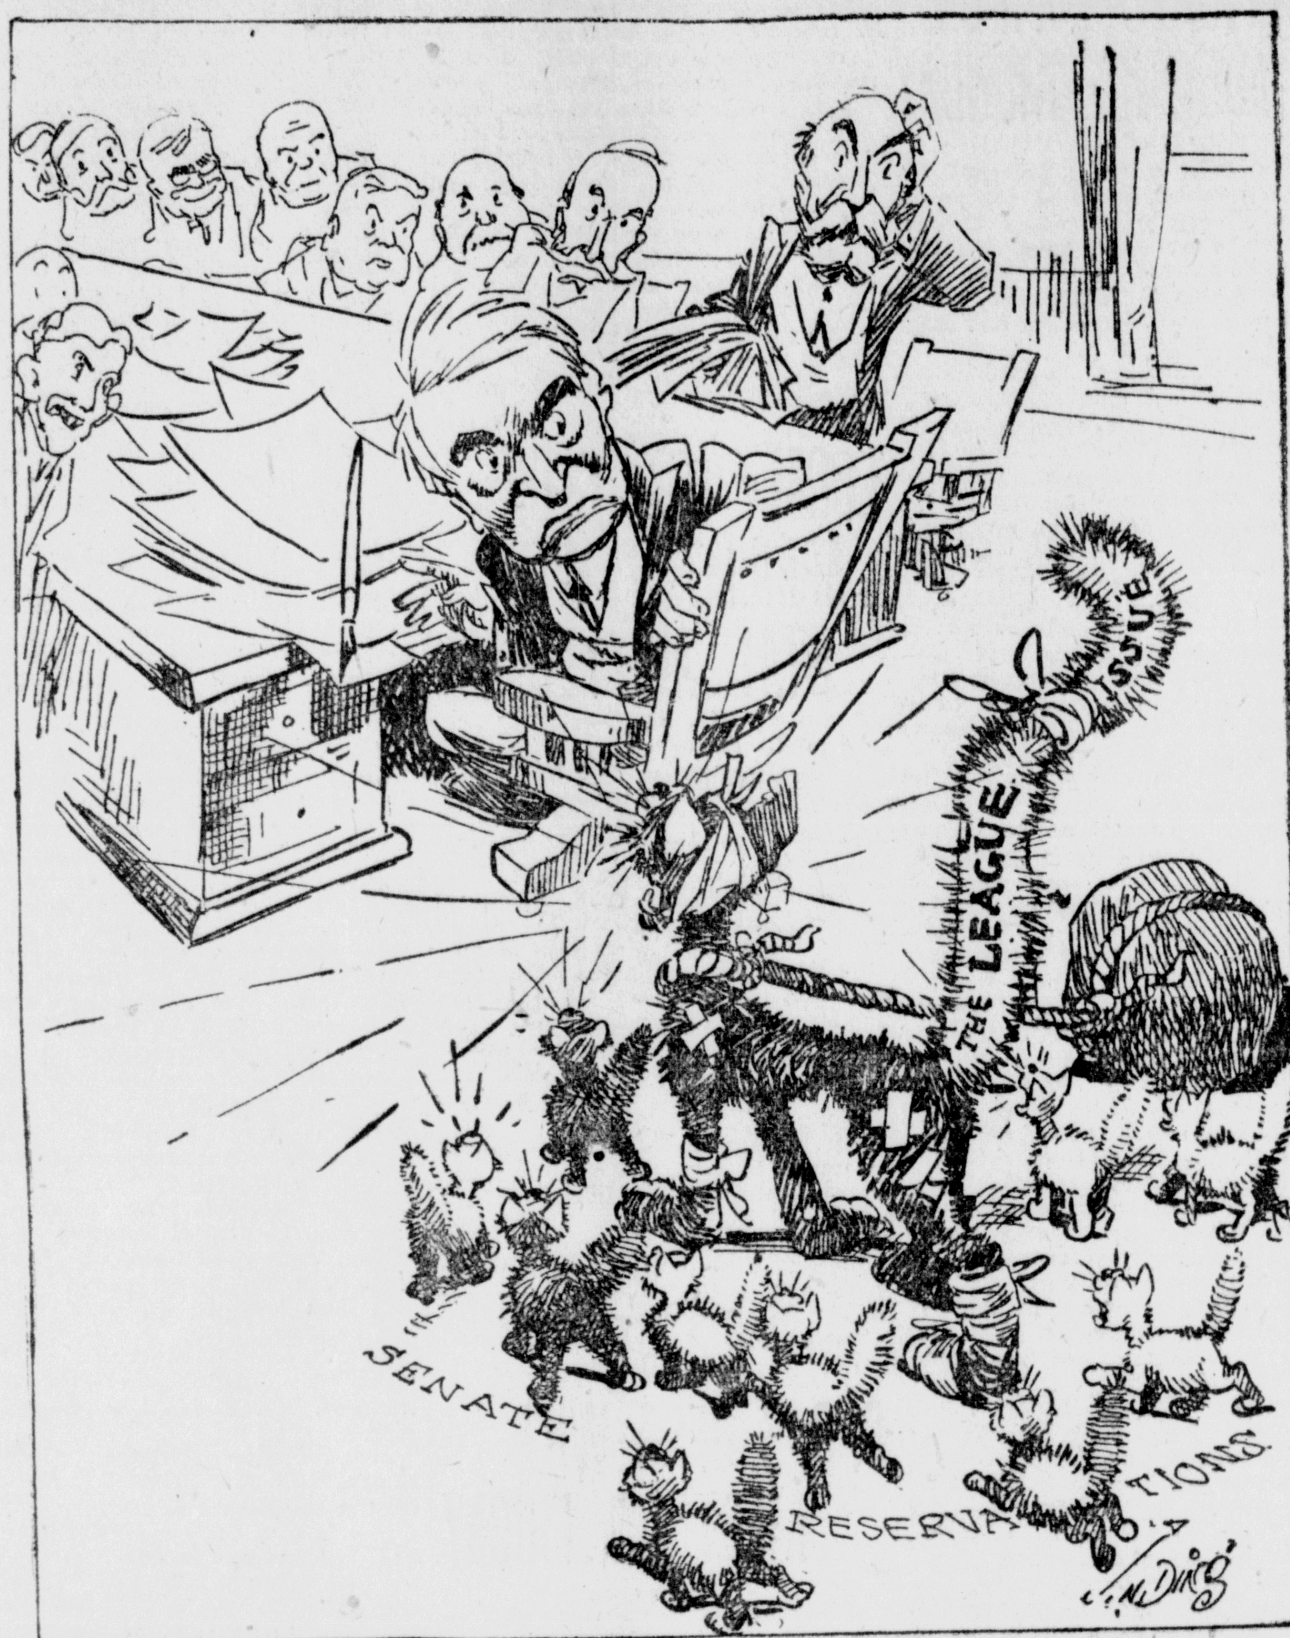

Rumors of war are often like back-fence gossip—they are the product of idle minds.

It is easy to say something mean about the other fellow, and that we suppose is why the knockers are in excess of the boosters.

Half a loaf may be better than none, but a half truth is more destructive than complete ignorance.

Time is the most valuable thing we possess, and yet the higher we rise, the poorer we become in that commodity.

EVEN THE MOST CAREFUL TENANTS ARE BOUND TO LEAVE SOMETHING BEHIND ON MOVING DAY

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

It is probable that several Greene Countians will go to Oklahoma next summer when the government will open up three million acres of land for settlement. While it is understood that it will not be ready for opening until August next there have been a number of inquiries already made concerning it.

Mr. Thomas Moore, the general undertaker, has a birthday once a year along with the rest of the world and that came around again on Wednesday. Some of his friends remembered the fact, and a number of relatives celebrated the day with him at his home on West Main Street, where a first class dinner was served and good fellowship reigned.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Court Satterfield, a son.

Mr. Michael Dunn who for a number of years has been employed at the Farrel grocery, has given up his position.

HOLLOW PROMISES.

I hired a dozen delegates, at divers times, to prune my trees, and do odd jobs on my estates, like washing dogs and herding bees; they vowed they'd come, these shifting skates, with sounding oaths and hully chees. I had to do the work alone, for no one came to give me aid, though I was fixed with buck and bone, to see that laborers were paid; I had to lift a ton of stone and dig a posthole with a spade. No fellow cares to ply a tool, no toiler to the vineyard comes; there is more fun in playing pool or rolling bones down in the slums; and this is why, when nights are cool, the parks are full of busted bums. We read about the unemployed, and o'er their sufferings men sob; but all such tales are null and void, the empty frothings of the mob, and I would be quite overjoyed to find a man who wants a job. I'm weary and disheartened now, I've tried so long to find a guy who'll come around and paint the cow and make the trusty buckaw fly; and all are ready with a vow, and every promise is a lie. Men break their pledges with a grin, when they should wring their hands and weep, and when they ought to toil and spin they calmly enurgle down to sleep; methinks that our besetting sin is making vows we do not keep.

Is It Yours?

THIS IS THE BIRTHDAY OF OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, JR. March 8, 1841

It is always interesting to examine the lives of great men's sons to see whether they inherited the father's genius. Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., built up a great reputation for himself, but along lines quite different from those which made his father famous.

He was born in Boston in 1841, and was graduated from Harvard college when he was 20 years old, receiving his diploma after he had already given up college in order to enlist in the army. He was a volunteer at the time in a battalion of infantry at Fort Independence.

He served with honor throughout the Civil War. He was wounded in the breast in Virginia, in the neck at Antietam, in the foot at Fredericksburg, then was put on the staff of General Wright.

He was mustered out at the end of the war with the rank of Captain. He went back to Harvard immediately and began to study law.

He first practiced law with his brother then was made an instructor at Harvard college. He was sufficiently interested in literature, however to combine it to a certain extent with his law career. He became editor of a law magazine and author or editor of several books on law.

President Roosevelt appointed him Associate Judge of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1902. His legal opinions have always been given in fine clear literary language.

A WORLD WITHOUT ADVERTISING

Chaos
Horse Trades
Creamed Teeth
For Country Boys
A Waste of Time

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

To realize the Value of Advertising—just imagine a world without it. There would be no standard of value. Petty cunning would have the strange hold on honest purpose. Sliding prices and special discounts would lure the buyer into thinking he had bought a bargain, when he had paid too much.

The "Get All You Can" dealer with his policy of Caveat Emptor (let the buyer beware) might predominate over the one-price dealer whose policy is the square deal to all.

No buyer would know what was the right price—or the fair value.

Prices on the same article in different localities would vary 100, 200 and 300 per cent, depending upon what the traffic could bear in each locality.

Every purchase would be like an old-fashioned horse trade, with the advantage on the side of the rapacious and avaricious.

The buyer and seller would be antagonists.

Distrust and suspicion would replace confidence.

The seller would not have the advantage of building up business by selling brands of established value at the one fair price. Nor would the buyer have the protection which such brands offer.

There would be no uniformity of quality or value. There would be hundreds of brands where one exists now. This would mean higher production costs, higher selling cost, and difficulty of choice on the part of the buyer.

And "the get all you can" attitude of the "sliding price" dealer and the suspicious born of uncertainty on the part of the buyer would result in a haggling, bargaining method of buying and selling that wastes the most precious thing in the world—time.

Purchases that now take a moment or so would take hours.

No—the complex civilization of today is geared right into advertising. Economic necessity demands it. It changes uncertainty to certainty—Chaos to system, and under the daylight of truth furnishes the most economic system of distribution that has ever been devised.

The very people who short-sightedly call advertising unnecessary—the cracker box philosopher who say that advertising cost is added to the price of the merchandise—are benefiting from advertising in every purchase they made.

They are saving time—they are saving money, because advertising has stabilized values everywhere and lowered prices. Advertising protects them some way every day.

ANSWERS TO LETTERS

Miss Blond—Do not pluck the eyebrows if they are inclined to swell. Usually this is a harmless, rather unnecessary method of achieving the present fashionable narrow eyebrow. If your brows are really too thick for beauty and plucking the hairs causes swelling, you can learn to clip the hairs off close to the surface of the skin and thus achieve the same effect.

Bright Eyes—Cocoa butter is an excellent flesh builder, but I would never advise it as a facial massage, because the complexion is usually very delicate and cocoa butter is too heavy for it. It can, however, be used as a massage for wrinkles, send me a letter, with a self-addressed stamped envelope enclosed and I will very gladly mail you one.

L. M.—It frequently happens that children with rather light hair grow up with the hair several shades darker. If I were you, I would not try any artificial methods of bleaching the hair, except such harmless methods as frequent sun baths. You can, of course, add the juice of half a lemon or whole lemon to the last rinse water when you shampoo, or you can add a couple of tablepoons of peroxide. Either way will make the hair a shade lighter. But do not try to make your hair blonde. Undoubtedly the present color of your hair is much more becoming.

Harriet Jane—Thank you for your letter warning very young girls about too strict dieting, and reducing themselves to a state of anæmia. In my attempts to secure a very slim figure, I never advise reduction below the normal standard of weight which is, as you know, the healthiest one. Your case was very unusual. I have only come across a few like it. It is possible to reduce too much, but with every letter that I send out about reduction, I send a weight chart, so the reader can tell what she should weigh. I am sorry to say that the greatest difficulty I encounter is to persuade young girls to diet down to normal weight. Ice cream, candy and rich cake are so appealing to that period of youth.

Jeannette—I do not quite know what you mean by the dark ring around the mouth. If you mean the growth of dark fuzz over the upper lip, I would advise you to use peroxide as a bleach. If it is anything else why not ask your family physician about it?

I Thank You—There are a great many things that can be done for an ugly nose, but what should be done depends upon the formation of the nose itself. If it is ugly to the point of deformity, a good facial specialist can help you. By proper methods of cleansing the skin, you can keep the nose better looking than if you allow blackheads and coarse pores.

What you should weigh depends on your height as well as your age. A girl 17 years of age, 5 feet 4 inches tall (which is an average height) should weigh about 123 pounds.

A cleansing cream containing vegetable oil will not grow hairs on the face unless there is a decided tendency towards this.

"Billie and Jack"—A girl of 16 with dark brown curly hair and dark blue eyes, will find both blues and brown becoming to her type. Dark blue will always make the eyes even more blue than they are and blue will also be very becoming, as will rose pink and pale green.

The 15 year old girl with straight light brown hair and grey eyes will look best in all shades of gray, blue, and rose. You are both old enough to wear your hair done up and you should choose a very simple girlish style.

The Markets

Stocks
Precedent might give reason to expect a pronounced recovery in the stock market, but the traders are not unduly optimistic. Industry is still marking time and the next few weeks may bring bad as well as good news. The stock market and commodity markets admittedly are well liquidated and the floating supply of stocks is small. Speculative interest in recovery. Just as February is always a month of dullness and uncertainty, so spring brings confidence and buoyancy. Despite a multitude of individual declines the average stock level has not sunk far during the past weeks. Further readjustments are in order and new points of weakness will undoubtedly develop. The advent of the Harding administration should clarify this country's position with reference to the German indemnity.

Grain
Little change was noted in the character of the wheat market at the midweek. The visible continued to decrease, while some export demand made itself felt. Sentiment is mixed. Conflicting influences give prices an erratic tendency, which will continue until something positive develops. No crop damage of such a nature as to give the market forward impetus has yet been reported. The statistical position of wheat is strongly bullish while the international financial situation is bearish. Flour stocks are light. The end of the heavy winter corn movement is near and receipts are expected to fall off. May corn and oats usually gain during March and April.

Livestock
Livestock growers are hoping that the market will maintain with fair consistency the improvement which marked the latter half of February. Apparently the worst is over. Live mutton got out of its rut in consequence of the re-export of much frozen lamb. Imports of foreign lamb have ceased. The hog market is marking time until the heavy winter movement subsides, when an advance is probable. Heavy hogs have been conspicuous in recent runs. Inquiry for stock cattle has quickened materially. Frenzied liquidation in the cattle market is less pronounced than heretofore.

Cotton
The cotton market during February was devoid of prominent features. The persistent tendency was downward and heavy liquidation came not only from domestic but from foreign holders. As the new crop approaches, southern growers are more disposed to sell. Southern banks increase their pressure. For the immediate present the outlook is not reassuring. Pessimism has been rampant. For the long pull confidence is somewhat evident, as indicated by the relative strength of the far months. Quotations are 70 per cent below last spring's figures. Crop preparations are backward. Goods production has increased 25 to 50 percent and average production at important mill centers is estimated as high as 75 per cent of capacity.

Wool
Eastern mill states have received less than half the amount of raw cotton that arrived last year, which explains the heavy accumulation in Southern primary markets.

American demand has been a strong supporting element in foreign markets. When it abated recently prices reacted. Efforts to advance domestic prices have met with scant success and interest slackened perceptibly as February comes to an end. On March 10 the government will auction off 6,000,000 pounds of wool. Western growers are more inclined to liquidate than heretofore in anticipation of the new clip, but the movement has not attained large proportions. The New Zealand government, it is of interest to note,

has made arrangements to finance wool growers who wish to hold for better times.

Agriculture
The past weeks brought two constructive developments from the farmer's standpoint. One is the final passage of the Emergency tariff measure, imposing high duties on important farm commodities, and the other the decision of the United States Supreme Court that the farm loan act is valid. An immediate issue of farm loan bonds will provide credit relief. Less immediate results may be expected of the Emergency tariff, as it will doubtless encounter a snag in the presidential veto, but the measure is significant as a suggestion of what Congress will do to protect the farmer in the enactment of a permanent tariff.

The Supreme Court holds that Congress had full authority to establish the federal land banks, providing farmers with readily accessible credits, and to exempt their bonds from taxation. The farm loan board will issue bonds to finance the hundreds of millions of dollars in loans which it has already approved and was forced to suspend. How rapidly the investment market will absorb these bonds at five per cent is a question. The bond market has been surfeited with huge issues but tax exempt securities have distinct attractions.

Rural constituencies were gratified at the Senate's action in passing the Agricultural Appropriation bill with $41,000,000 for operation of the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year beginning next June, as against $32,000,000 provided for next year by the House. The Senate added such items as $114,000 for road material investigations and $100,000 for investigations of foreign markets for farm products. While the farmers are glad of this increased appropriation, they will ask that it be spent efficiently and without duplication of activity.

Implement dealers and manufacturers should mark their prices down to a level harmonious with prices of manshot of farm prices. The reason many tractors are not selling is that the manufacturers are reluctant to reduce prices substantially on the ground that wages have not changed appreciably. Wage deflation is the next step in after-war adjustment. Factory wages constitute the chief obstacle to progress in agriculture. Steele magnates are implicated. The tractor has passed its experimental stage, as the Nation Tractor show at Columbus recently demonstrated. The business farmer

PARENT-TEACHER'S ASSOCIATION WILL NEED MORE FUNDS

The consideration of ways and means to replenish the treasury in order to continue the work of the Parent-Teachers Association of the Central School Grades was the chief topic under discussion at the meeting of the organization held Monday.

The report of the treasurer showed that the Association lacks funds with which to continue the work for more than a month, and for that reason it was decided to hold a community supper some time soon in order to raise money to replenish the treasury. The supper will be served at the Chamber of Commerce according to the plans now under consideration.

The report of Mrs. McEwen head of the opportunity school in the Christ Church Parish House showed that the work is marked with remarkable results in physical and mental welfare of the students. The warm noon lunch according to Mrs. McEwen's report was of distinct benefit to the children and was much appreciated by them.

The proposition of securing a piano for the Central School grades, which have been lacking an instrument for some time, was taken care of by the proposal of Mrs. D. J. Davies, made at the meeting. It is Mrs. Davies' plan that she furnish the school with a piano for the use of pupils, providing she retains the privilege of giving her music lessons at the school.

The weekly educational moving pictures shown at the McKinley Junior High School each Friday night will this week be for the benefit of the Central Grades it was announced at the meeting.

TABLE RESOLUTION

Bucyrus, March 7.—A resolution to adopt daylight saving here this summer was tabled by the Bucyrus city council.

PIED PIPER COULD GET JOB CATCHING RATS IN BOSTON

Boston—Rats! Rats! Rats! Rats!

Hundreds of them, and every last one a possible carrier of plague, the deadliest foe medical science has to fight, are being exterminated by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, co-operating with the City Health Department.

The average daily catch of 400 traps the rat chatters are putting out is more than a hundred and the number is increasing all the time.

So says H. C. Moorman of the State Department, regarded as one of the most efficient rat catchers in the United States.

"Mind you, there is no need for being alarmed. The situation is well in hand, and the work of exterminating the rodents in Boston and vicinity is going forward steadily. But there is always the need for precaution and the preventive measures.

"In Boston we have a gang of men at work along the waterfront utilizing the $5,000 appropriation made last year by the Legislature for the work. It is not enough from our point of view, for so long as a single infected plague rat is loose in the city there is danger of an epidemic.

DINAH's specialty was pancakes. Smith consumed loads of them every morning—he never knew how many, but at least a dozen or so. This particular morning when he entered the kitchen to praise Dinah's pancakes, he was greeted with a barrage of pans, tea cups, skillets and pancake batter. "When you-all gonna have this here kitchen repapered?" roared Dinah. And Smith rushed to the phone and called us because he knew we were great on settling little affairs like this as well as supplying fine wall paper. But try us yourself.

WANTS COURT RULING

Findlay, March 5.—Common Pleas Judge William E. Duncan has been asked by Attorney George H. Phelps to rule on the legality of the new cost-plus street car franchise, passed February 14 by the city council, calling for 8 cent fare at the start, Phelps, in a suit attacking the franchise's validity, declared that the council has no authority to grant a commission created by the grant, power to regulate the company's finances. Five cent fare now prevails.

J. B. BICE ELECTED EXALTED RULER OF LOCAL ELK'S LODGE

Following one of the most interesting and hotly contested elections ever held in a Xenia lodge, J. B. Bice was elected Exalted Ruler, the highest rank in local Elksdom at the regular session of Xenia Lodge, No. 668 B. P. O. Elks, held at the Elk's Home, Second and Whiteman streets, Monday evening.

The regular election was carried on through a system of official ballots, resembling the regular civic election ballots, and a ballot box was the receptacle for the votes.

J. B. BICE.

Mr. Bice, the new exalted ruler, will succeed Jacob Kany, who has guided the destinies of the local lodge through the past year, and who will now bear the title of Past Exalted Ruler. Mr. Kany was a candidate for re-election, but was defeated by ten votes. W. C. Hallis, whose name was also on the ballot, withdrew before the balloting started.

Attorney Frank L. Johnson, was elected Esteemed Leading Knight, next in line to Exalted Ruler, over Paul B. Yockey, the only other candidate. Frank A. Jackson, was elected Esteemed Loyal Knight, defeating William J. Smith, the former Esteemed Lecturing Knight, who was in line for that position. The position of Esteemed Loyal Knight had been vacant since the death of Lester Johnson. Clarence W. Fisher, was unopposed for the position of Esteemed Lecturing Knight, to which he was elected. R. C. Britton, defeated Paul B. Owens for secretary of the lodge by five votes. Mr. Owens was secretary during the past year, and was a candidate for re-election with Mr. Britton his only opponent.

For the position of treasurer of the lodge J. W. Faulkner was elected over Omer Parker. Frank Edwards was elected to the position of Tyler over Charles O. Weddle, the only other candidate, after William Dodds, had withdrawn his name for the position. W. B. Hill, Past Exalted Ruler, was elected Trustee, there being one to elect, over William Ambuhl, L. D. Wilson, H. W. Cleaver, the other candidate withdrew.

The new officers elected at the meeting will take their places at the first regular session, April 1, when the ceremonies seating them in their positions will be observed.

The result of the count was as follows: Bice 43, Kany 33; Johnson 54, Yockey 19; Jackson 59, Smith 16; Fisher 71; Britton 49, Owens 35; Faulkner 53, Parker 21; Edwards 37, Weddle 32; Hill 51, Ambuhl 19, Wilson 5.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Lemon Custard—Place in saucepan one and one-half cups of milk, two-thirds cups of sugar, four level tablespoons cornstarch. Stir to dissolve and then bring to a boil and cook for five minutes. Remove from the stove and place in a bowl and add rind of one lemon, strained juice of melted butter, yolks of two eggs. Beat well before adding to the custard. Bring to a boil again and then remove from the stove and beat in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Rinse custard cups with cold water and then pour in the mixture. Chill and turn from the cups and serve. Place a spoonful of orange jelly on top.

Cider Sauce—Place in a saucepan one cup of cider, four tablespoons brown sugar, one-half cup vinegar, one cup water, one-half teaspoon ginger, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, five tablespoons of cornstarch. Stir to dissolve the starch and then bring to a boil. Cook for ten minutes and then serve.

LENTEN SUGGESTIONS.
Egg and Cream Potpie—One and one-half teacups of flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, cold water to form thick batter to drop from tablespoon into the cream sauce.

Cream Sauce—One cup of condensed cream with three cups of water (a little more if necessary), salt to taste. When the sauce is boiling drop in the dumplings and cook fifteen or twenty minutes. Serve with the eggs on same dish—five or six hard boiled eggs quartered will be sufficient.

Cheese Slices—Cut the crust from thin slices of bread, cut in halves, cover with thin slices of cheese (cream cheese preferred), sprinkle with salt, paprika and cayenne; cover with another slice of bread and fry in butter until browned.

Cheese Patties—Have ready one-half cup grated cheese, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons of flour, one cup milk, four eggs, salt and pepper, and rich pie crust. Melt butter in saucepan, stir in flour and add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Let cook a few minutes. Cool slightly and stir in the yolks of eggs. Cook gently but do not let boil. Add cheese, salt and pepper and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten till stiff and dry. Line individual pans with rich crust, rolled thin, fill with cheese mixture and bake in a quick oven.

Cottage Cheese and Peanut Salad—Drain cottage cheese thoroughly and moisten with sour cream; add one-third cup of chopped peanuts and salt to taste. Shape in balls and serve on crisp lettuce leaves and French dressing.

DISCOVERIES.
Cover mouse holes with tar paper. Mice do not like the smell of tar and will disappear.
Paint spots on window panes can be removed with cloth wet with hot vinegar.

THE WOMAN HE MARRIED

A CRY FOR HELP

The years spent in New York seemed very distant, and I had grown careless in writing to Mrs. Gray. But in my need her sweet motherly face came before me, and thoughts of her as the one person in the world who could help me filled my mind.

I wrote asking her to make me a visit. I did not realize until I heard from her husband that she was ill and could not take such a journey, how much I had depended upon her coming. I could hope for help from no one. I must fight my trouble, attack my problem alone.

I felt almost sure that as long as Junior was at home Dick would not see as much of Juanita as he had before he came. I started at once to put into execution a plan I had formulated.

"I'm going over to Aunt Nita's, Junior," I remarked, "Don't you and father want to go with me?"

"I'll go!" Junior replied, but Dick excused himself.

As tactfully, as I could, turned the conversation upon Dick. I told Juanita I suspected he was not well that he was unlike himself.

"If I did not know him so well, I would think he was getting silly in his old age," I said when Junior had gone out on the porch with Juanita's pomeranian. "He acts as if he were in love."

"What do you mean?" Juanita had flushed.

"Just what I say, Dick is a peculiar temperament. He changed in many ways when he lived on the desert so long. He is easily affected by colors, by anything which appeals to his sense of beauty, of rhythm. But this only lasts while he is with the person, or in the place where he is so affected. As soon as he is away, he is himself again." "You mean he is fickle?" a puzzled look on her face.

"That's no name for it," I declared laughing, but relieved at Junior's reappearance. I had "started something," as he would have said.

When he reached home Dick was on the porch, an open letter in his hand, a look of discouragement on his face.

"What is it Dick?" I asked.

"Read that!" he replied shortly, handing me the letter. It was a short one from the publisher to whom he had submitted his manuscript. The book was not suitable for their readers, and so they would have to return it, etc.

I could have sung aloud for joy. The "and so forth" had been a short but rather scathing criticism of some of the descriptions and characters, most of which had been furnished by Juanita.

"It would have been all right if you had written it alone," I said as I returned the letter, "but a woman who is as prone to exaggeration as Juanita, cannot help but ruin any serious undertaking."

"Why didn't you say so before?" It was almost a rebuke. "And what do you mean by exaggeration?"

"Just what the word means. In dress, in manner, in all she does, she is an exaggeration of self. To be really helpful, one cannot think of making an impression all the time, whether that impression is on one person, or upon the public."

"I thought you liked her."

"I do," it was excusable to lie in such a cause "but that doesn't blind me. She is fascinating that many women would consider her dangerous. Yet one would tire of her just as one tires of some exotic plant. But why are we so seriously discussing Juanita?"

"I was playing into my hands as I had made up my mind to discuss her with him constantly, him with her in trying to do.

instead of avoiding any mention of them I would talk so constantly of Juanita to Dick of Juanita that they would tire of hearing each other's name. It may seem like a childish thing to do, but I was willing to do anything short of murder to keep my husband.

I had thought of going to Juanita and frankly asking her to keep away from Dick, to keep him away from her, to refuse to see him. Then I recalled her mocking laugh, the glances I had seen her give Dick, and felt sure she would only laugh at me. If I could turn them against each other in some way it would be far better.

The publisher by his rejection of the manuscript had helped me. Juanita had said so much about her helpfulness on the very points the publisher criticized that it did not need a woman's "I told you so," to make Dick feel I had been right in my feeling that if she was helping she should be recognized, if she was not, he would do better to work alone.

"I should like to go away for a while, Dick. Suppose you come along and get material for some good stories?" I ventured a day or two after this. I had not seen Juanita, but she had been over. Junior was at home, and I smiled as he told me:

"Father was so elum over his book I stayed right with them and helped entertain Aunt Nita."

"Why didn't you invite her to dinner?" I asked Dick. "Was she as gorgeously gown as usual?" He had said he couldn't go away.

"Looked like a Christmas tree!" It's all right at parties and things, and when I was a kid I thought she was wonderful. But honest, I'd hate to have you doll up like she does."

I could have hugged that blessed boy. He was playing into my hands as I had made up my mind to discuss her with him constantly, him with her in trying to do.

Buick Valve In Head Motor Cars

Today, as never before, a motor car is purchased as a dividend earning investment—dividends of utility, service, economy and resale value.

The twenty years performance record of Buick Cars and the power and reliability of the famed Buick Valve-In-Head motor are thoroughly familiar to the public and explain, in a measure why Buick is so generally recognized as a sound investment.

The low stream-lines of the 1921 Models give these cars an appearance of grace and dignity. A greater roominess of tonneau and space provided adds motoring comfort. Both elements are well expressed in the new 1921 Models.

When you buy a Buick car you are assured of service wherever you go, as there are Buick Service Stations in any city.

Buick owners will get better service by going where they see the Buick sign.

MANY KILLED IN RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

REDS REPULSE REBEL FORCES AT PETROGRAD

Headquarters Of Anti-Reds
Near Moscow Bom-
barded.
100,000 ON STRIKE
Concessions Are Offered
To Rebels By Russian
Government.

Paris, March 8.—Official dis-
patches received here during the
afternoon confirmed that the Russian anti-bolshevik rebels
have been repulsed by the soviet
troops at both Petrograd and Moscow.

The Moscow railway is still
functioning normally.
According to official advices
received here the insurgents captured only one soviet commis-
saire when they took the Kron-
stadt fortress.

London, March 8.—“Several hundred persons were killed at Moscow
when soviet artillery massed in the
hills near the city, bombarded the
workers headquarters,” said a Central News dispatch from Helsing-
fors this afternoon. “In addition
to the killed large numbers were
wounded. The bombardment followed the declaration of a general
strike on the part of the workers
to enforce their demand for the
creation of a constituent assembly.
The strikers at Moscow are reported to number over 100,000 at present.”

Soviet troops that were ordered
against the insurgent garrison of Kronstadt attempted to cross on the
ice. The cruiser Petropavlovsk
which is in the hands of the rebels
opened fire upon the red troops
putting them to flight.

Two Revolutions
“There are really two revolutions in progress against the Lenine-Trotsky regime,” said a
Helsingfors dispatch to the Daily
Express. “One has its center at Pe-
trograd and the other is directed
from Moscow. The Petrograd re-
volt is a movement on the part of
the ‘right’ political party whose members are discontented with soviet rule and are demanding freedom of speech and the press and the right of individual trade. Moderate
socialists and discontented work-
men joined the rebels. The Moscow
movement is being carried out by
the ‘left’ political party which is
dissatisfied with the leadership of Lenine and Trotsky.”

“It is improbable that the revolutionary movements now under way
in Russia will succeed in overthrew-
ing either Lenine or Trotsky. Those
who look for the present revolution to be successful or for the
early downfall of bolshevism in Russia are likely to be disappoint-
ed.”

Offer Suggestions
The Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Helsingfors reported
that the soviet had offered far
percent communists in personnel.
The Petrograd soviet has proposed peace negotiations to the Kron-stadt insurgents. The insurgent
leaders at the fortress said they
were willing to receive a deputa-
tion so long as it was only fifteen
percent communists in personnel.
“Part of Kronstadt and Livyons
are in flames,” said another Hel-
singfors dispatch to the Daily Express this afternoon. “The garrison
at Krasnaja Gorka has joined the
insurgents. The city of Petrograd
and the forts on the outskirts have
been under heavy bombardment.
Trotsky and Kameneff have arrived at Petrograd with light artillery
to reinforce the forts at Sestroretski, Livyons and Tarhovka.”

“The bombardment at Petrograd
Monday was very severe,” said a
third Helsingfors dispatch to the Daily Express. “It began at 6
o’clock in the morning with 35
shells dropping every minute.
About nine o’clock it weakened.
“There was intense fighting in
the streets of Petrograd during
which machine guns were used.
“Bolshevik soldiers are manning
the frontier between Russia and Finland fearing assistance from Finnish ‘whites.’”

London, March 8.—It is reported in Helsingfors that anti-bolshevik insurgents and striking workmen have
sailed Odesa,” said a Central News
dispatch from Helsingfors this afternoon. The Moscow soviet was reported to be sending troops to retake the
city.

“Approximate Disarmament” Pres. Harding’s Offer for Peace

Nation Willing to Join With Others In Abolishing Ex-
cessive Armament, Declares President—Republican Leaders Differ in Policies.

Washington, March 8.—“Approximate disarmament,” will be the professor of President Warren G. Harding
for world peace.
The phrase was carefully chosen by
the president as he stood upon the
threshold of the main doorway of the White House early this morning.
The president stressed the adjective “approximate” with special emphasis as bareheaded and smiling, he
faced the newspaper correspondent
pressing him for a commitment on
disarmament.

The inflection he bestowed upon it
left no doubt as to his meaning.
What he said was brief and pointed,
but in an instant he conjured up the
American nation, unwilling to be dis-
armed or unprepared for defense, but
willing to join with other nations in
abolishing excessive armament.
Republican leaders of congress were
still rolling away in well polished
limousines from the brilliantly illuminated portico as the president
frankly discussed the long conference
he had with them since early evening.

There had been differences of opinion between the Republican leaders
with whom he had conferred at dinner and afterwards. He made no attempt at concealment of the fact that
republican members of the senate
finance committee and the house ways
and means committee had differed as
to whether tariff duties or domestic
taxation should be revised first when
the new congress convenes. But he
indicated he was hopeful that an
agreement would be reached after a
careful canvass of the senate and
house is made.

The president made it plain he did
not desire the impression should go
forth that it was his purpose to consult only a small group of men who
are the recognized Republican leaders
of congress.
He wanted to sound out the sentiment of the full Republican majority
of congress to ascertain the views of
other senators and congressmen as to
what should be done to meet the
grave domestic problems confronting
the country.

STATE INCOME TAX BILL IS INTRODUCED INTO OHIO HOUSE

Provides One Per Cent Tax
On All Incomes Up
To $4,000.

Columbus, O., March 8.—A state
friends of the uniform rule of tax-
income tax bill supported by
ation, has been introduced in the
house by Rep. Gordon of Logan County. The measure provides for a 1 percent tax on all incomes up
to $4,000 and 2 percent in excess
of that amount. Single men would be allowed a $500 exemption from their incomes and married men
$1,000, plus $250 for each child.
Of the tax thus raised, 75 per cent
would go to the municipality or
township in which the tax payers
reside and the other 25 percent to
the state treasury. In order to avoid double taxation incomes from
real estate would be exempted up
to the amount of all general property taxes.
The governors’ citizens taxation
committee is expected to make its
report to Gov. Davis today. Among
other recommendations, the committee is expected to urge enactment of an income tax measure at the state constitution has been
amended so as to break the uniform
rule of taxation.

TROTSKY APPOINTED MILITARY DICTATOR

ment at Moscow has been appointed
military dictator of Russia with un-

have sprung up in various sections of
the country, according to an Exchange
Telegraph dispatch from Helsingfors
today. Trotsky is said to be on his
way to Petrograd where the insurgents
have been making their strongest
fight against soviet power.
Thirty seven thousand soldiers and
sailors are said to be marching upon
Petrograd from the fortress of
Kronstadt. At last reports Trotsky is said to be on his way to the fortress of Kronstadt which was held by the “whites” or anti-bolsheviks.

“The bombardment at Petrograd
Monday was very severe,” said a
third Helsingfors dispatch to the Daily Express. “It began at 6
o’clock in the morning with 35
shells dropping every minute.
About nine o’clock it weakened.
“There was intense fighting in

Squadrons Of Airmen.

Paris, March 8.—Allied troops—French, British and Belgian —advanced on the Rhine today and occupied three important German industrial and coal mining cities—Duesseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort. Word was received from Cologne at one o'clock this afternoon that the military occupation of the three cities had been completed without incident. The Germans made no resistance although sniping was reported from some districts.

United States troops took no part in the military operations. They remained within their old lines in the Coblenz district.

PRESIDENT EBERT APPEALS TO PEOPLE TO REMAIN CALM

Tense Undercurrent Of
Feeling Manifest In
Duesseldorf.

Berlin, March 8.—President
Ebert has appealed to the German
people to remain calm in the face
of the allied advance from the Rhine. The German cabinet held
a session at midnight. It was reported that Dr. Walter Simons, the
foreign minister was to be upheld
entirely for his course at London,
in rejecting the allied demand for 225,000,000,000 gold marks inden-
nity.

According to news received here
the allied troops were under orders
to begin moving all along the

current of feeling however.

A detachment of French cavalry

PROHIBITION 'LID' REMOVED ON BEER

BEER AS A MEDI-CINE.

Washington, March 8.—The prohibition “lid” was removed today on “beer with a kick” for medicinal purposes.

The department of justice ruled
that physicians are authorized under
the Volstead law to prescribe beer
when in their judgment it will prove beneficial. The beer ruling was drafted before the new administration
came into office and bears the signature of A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney
general.

Beer now takes a status equal to
that of wine as a curative agent
legally listed by the government and
physicians will be allowed wide latitude
by directing its use by patients
when such use will aid recovery in
cases of illness or convalescence.

“I have always made my invocations
brief,” explained the girl pastor. And Senator Simon E. Lanz, a member of
Miss Brown's congregation, added

FAMOUS "FRAME-UP" TRIAL IS STARTED; BIG FUND RAISED

Dedham, Mass.—Bartholomew Vanzetti, an Italian accomplished in the arts of public speaking and writing, and his young friend, Nicolo Sacco, were placed on trial today for murder and highway robbery in cases that have assumed nationwide and international importance.

A special venire of 500 jurors had been drawn when Vanzetti and Sacco were brought to the bar in Norfolk County Superior Court before Judge Webster Thayer. Selection of a jury was expected to occupy several days.

Vanzetti and Sacco are accused of being responsible for the death of Frederic A. Parmenter, paymaster of the Slater & Morrell shoe factory at South Braintree, and of Alessandro Baradelli, a native of Waterbury, Conn., a constable and special messenger of the company. The men were killed by auto-bandits who grabbed a payroll of $15,000 from the factory and escaped, shooting up South Braintree as they went.

Italian societies, various labor bodies and friends of the two defendants claim they are the victims of a "frame up" as a sequel to what they term "the violent campaign of lawlessness of the Department of Justice," which culminated May 3, 1920, in the tragic death of Andrea Salasdo, who fell fourteen stories to death in New York while a prisoner of United States Secret Service men.

The Vanzetti and Sacco defense committee, which has raised thousands of dollars throughout the country for a defense fund for the two men, charges that Vanzetti and Sacco incurred official enmity because they took prompt steps for the release of Robert Ellis, held for several months with Salasdo when he plunged to the New York pavement.

Story of Crime
April 15, 1920, six automobile bandits armed with repeating rifles and automatics, descended upon South Braintree. Paymaster Parmenter was shot dead. Officer Baradelli was fatally wounded and the $15,000 payroll was seized.

The bandits were attacked by several men who were standing on the sidewalk near the Slater and Morrell shoe factory. Just as the firing commenced a green colored automobile which had been standing nearby came up and the holdup men jumped aboard.

Fusillade of Bullets
From the automobile came a fusillade of bullets which sent hundreds of persons to cover. Several narrowly escaped being struck by the almost steady volley which the bandits poured from the guns as they sought to clear the roadways. Girls employed in a South Braintree shoe factory were thrown into a panic when two bullets crashed through the windows from which they had witnessed the shooting. A gate tender at the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad crossing dodged in back of his gate house in time to avoid being struck by a bullet which was sent in his direction when he attempted to lower the gates to block the progress of the fleeing bandits. Up the street a shoe salesman tried to get the number of the death car but a bullet was sent in his direction and he dodged to cover. The trail led to Holbrook, both ere it was lost. The murder car was found a few days later abandoned in the woods near Bridgewater. The bandits had entered another automobile after leaving the one in which they had shot up South Braintree.

On May 6 Vanzetti with his friend Sacco, was taken from an electric car on the way to Brockwater to see an automobile which had been left in a garage under suspicious circumstances. Both men had obtained passports to go to Italy.

Plymouth Court, charged with attempt to murder Paymaster Cox in The Bridgewater shoe factory payroll holdup of December 1919. He was convicted by a jury and was sentenced to serve from twelve to fifteen years in prison. Vanzetti was taken to the State prison at Charlestown.

Are "Positively Identified"
Later Vanzetti and Sacco were "positively identified" by citizens of South Braintree as two of the bandits in the shoe factory payroll robbery and murder at that place. Gun shells were found in the car at West Bridgewater and other evidence against the men was brought out. The gun shells figured in Vanzetti's trial at Plymouth. The Vanzetti and Sacco defense committee allege that certain shells used as evidence were tampered with, that after the jury was locked up one of the jurors opened a shell and found it contained buckshot instead of bird shot as claimed. On the ground of "improprieties in the jury room" a new trial has been asked for Vanzetti at Plymouth.

Vanzetti claims he was selling fish about Plymouth on the day of the Bridgewater holdup. Eighteen Italians at Plymouth testified to seeing him there that day.

Both Vanzetti and Sacco claim they were far from South Braintree on the day of the holdup and murder there.

Fred H. Moore, for many years counsel for labor unions and attorney in the famous Ettor-Giovanetti trial in 1912 is in charge of the Vanzetti and Sacco defense. He is assisted by William J. Callahan of Brockton.

LESOURD NAMED AS ALL-STAR TIMBER BY SPORT WRITER

Captain "Bill" LeSourd, right forward on Central High School's basketball team, that made such a stir in the annual interscholastic basketball tournament at Ohio Wesleyan. Delaware last week, has been named forward on the mythical all-Southern second team, by Armour Tarbell, sporting editor of the Ohio Wesleyan University Transcript, the college newspaper.

The Transcript is acknowledged as the only paper in the state that can make the selection, and on account of this authority much interest is attached to the selection. Dayton players drew all of the places on the mythical first team, Keefe and Klee of Steele, drawing the forwards, Harry Schwab of Stivers, the center position, and Seibert of Steele and Harvey Schwab of Stivers, the guards.

Captain LeSourd of the local quintet was named right forward on the second team as a running mate to Jimmy 'of Cambridge. Butler of Steele was picked as center on the second team, and Stevenson of Stivers and Harlow of Steele on the guards. The third team selection is Armstrong of Greenfield, right forward; Davis of Columbus North left forward; Campbell of Delaware, center; Highwarden of Delaware, a col-

Paul Boxwell, sturdy guard on the blue and white quintet, was given honorable mention by the Wesleyan sport writer. Among others who won honorable mention among the 78 teams, and 546 players who participated in the games are: Forwards, Springer of Crooksville; Freeman of Canal Winchester, and Pocock of Stivers; Centers, Showers of Crooksville; Becking of Urbana Rural; Guards, Bowen, Canal Winchester; Goxwell of Xenia, and Stroup of Greenfield. In the five games played Goxwell of the local team, only permitted his opponents to score three field goals, all of them being secured in the last two games. In the first three games, Boxwell's opponent did not get a field goal, while he was annexing seven with a total of nine for the series of five games. Captain LeSourd secured 14 field goals, and tossed 12 fouls for a total of 40 points during the five games.

In announcing his all-Southern selection Tarbell said: "The teams from the Southern division on the whole were not up to the standard set by the northern teams this year."

LAST FRIDAY'S GREAT EVENT WAS SO MOMENTOUS IT JUSTIFIES FURTHER CONSIDERATION.

A broad-shouldered American gentleman, God-fearing, humble and unpretentious, stood bareheaded in the glint of a brilliant sun and took the oath as twenty-ninth President of the United States. Not fewer than fifty thousand of his compatriots, clustered over whole acres of the Capitol, looked on while Warren Gamaliel Harding swore fealty to the constitution. They were participants in an event designedly devoid of pomp, yet impressive in the majesty of its simplicity.

The gods who cause March winds to blow were uncommonly kind. On many an inauguration day in times gone by they have raged and fumed. Once they sent an incoming President to the White House with diphtheria and death as his portion a month later. But last Friday played the gentlest of breezes, conspiring with the sun to give Ohio's distinguished son an atmosphere setting without compare.

Mr. Harding evoked his first outburst of approval when he dwelt upon "the wisdom of our inherited policy of noninvolvement in Old World affairs." Thenceforward every expression along that line drew a crescendo of approbation. "We seek no part in directing the destinies of the Old World. We do not mean to be entangled. We will accept no responsibility except as our own conscience and judgment, in each instance, may determine." The multitude, stretching a thousand feet away to the Congressional Library in front and to the Senate and House office buildings on the right and left, chorused its approval to that unequivocal statement of policy. It was the pinnacle of Mr. Harding's address. He manifestly meant it to be, for his voice, ringing clear and sped afar by the amplifying apparatus, now was pitched to a strong and confident key, while his right arm was poised in forceful gesture.

Except for the formalities which are properly devised to give dignity and meaning to the occasion, it is to the everlasting credit of the American people that this passing of supreme authority from one man to another goes on along such simple lines that the very revolutionary character of the change when the leader of one great party succeeds the spokesman of another is marked by nothing but the good-natured amenities that should obtain among a people in control of themselves and of their destinies. Without menace or threat of violence and without any break in the continuity of government, that lives and functions no matter what happens, the inauguration typifies the very sublimation of the American idea; the rule of the majority through the free exercise of the ballot.

WE MIGHT BE "SMARTER" IF NOT TOO LAZY.

You will recall the inspiring story of Elihu Burritt, "the learned blacksmith." On account of his father's long illness, the boy had to remain at home without much schooling. He was apprenticed to a blacksmith at sixteen and took that work as his trade. With a great passion for reading and an extraordinary aptitude for languages, he found time to attend the little village school, and even secured some educational advantages at New Haven, the seat of Yale University. He read all the books in the village library and as many others as he could borrow or buy; he mastered Greek, Latin, French, German, Spanish and Italian; and at the age of thirty could read nearly fifty languages. How did he find time for all this? He read and studied with a book open before him as he worked at the forge; and his leisure time at home was devoted to study. With a great store of knowledge at his command, Burritt finally took to lecturing, and afterwards traveled extensively in this country and in Europe on behalf of universal peace and human brotherhood. He organized peace congresses in England and on the continent; wrote pamphlets and books on the subject of Peace, and even started a newspaper in furtherance of his noble humanitarian views. He was honored by American universities and received the post of consul at an English port for several years. But all his learning and all the honors which he gained were the result of his stern determination to know the best thoughts set down by the wisest men of all ages. Not many of us, like him, possess a remarkable talent for languages; but we all have good average minds which need a great deal of cultivation. And we can all secure a liberal education by making use of the right books in an economical way. In this connection let us recall the homely advice of Lincoln's mother, early impressed upon the mind of young Abraham: "Larn all ye kin. Be of some account!"

Spooning atop Fifth Avenue busses has been officially recognized in New York as a legitimate form of sport, and we suppose that in the future signs reading "Osculations permitted only on the first five rows" will be prominently displayed.

March has come in like a lamb, and in the interest of woolen goods and spring it is hoped that the weatherman will not see fit to change its shape before the end of the month.

While we have not yet seen that first Robin, we have been certain that we have heard one every morning for the past week, but then we are more familiar with cat calls than bird calls and we may be mistaken.

Rain is necessary for all life, but how will the ex-Kaiser survive a reignless old age?

The early bird catches the worm, but there seem to be a good many late ones who apparently never go hungry.

There are a good many kinks to be ironed out of the nation's affairs so we suppose that Harding will construe his job to be a pressing matter.

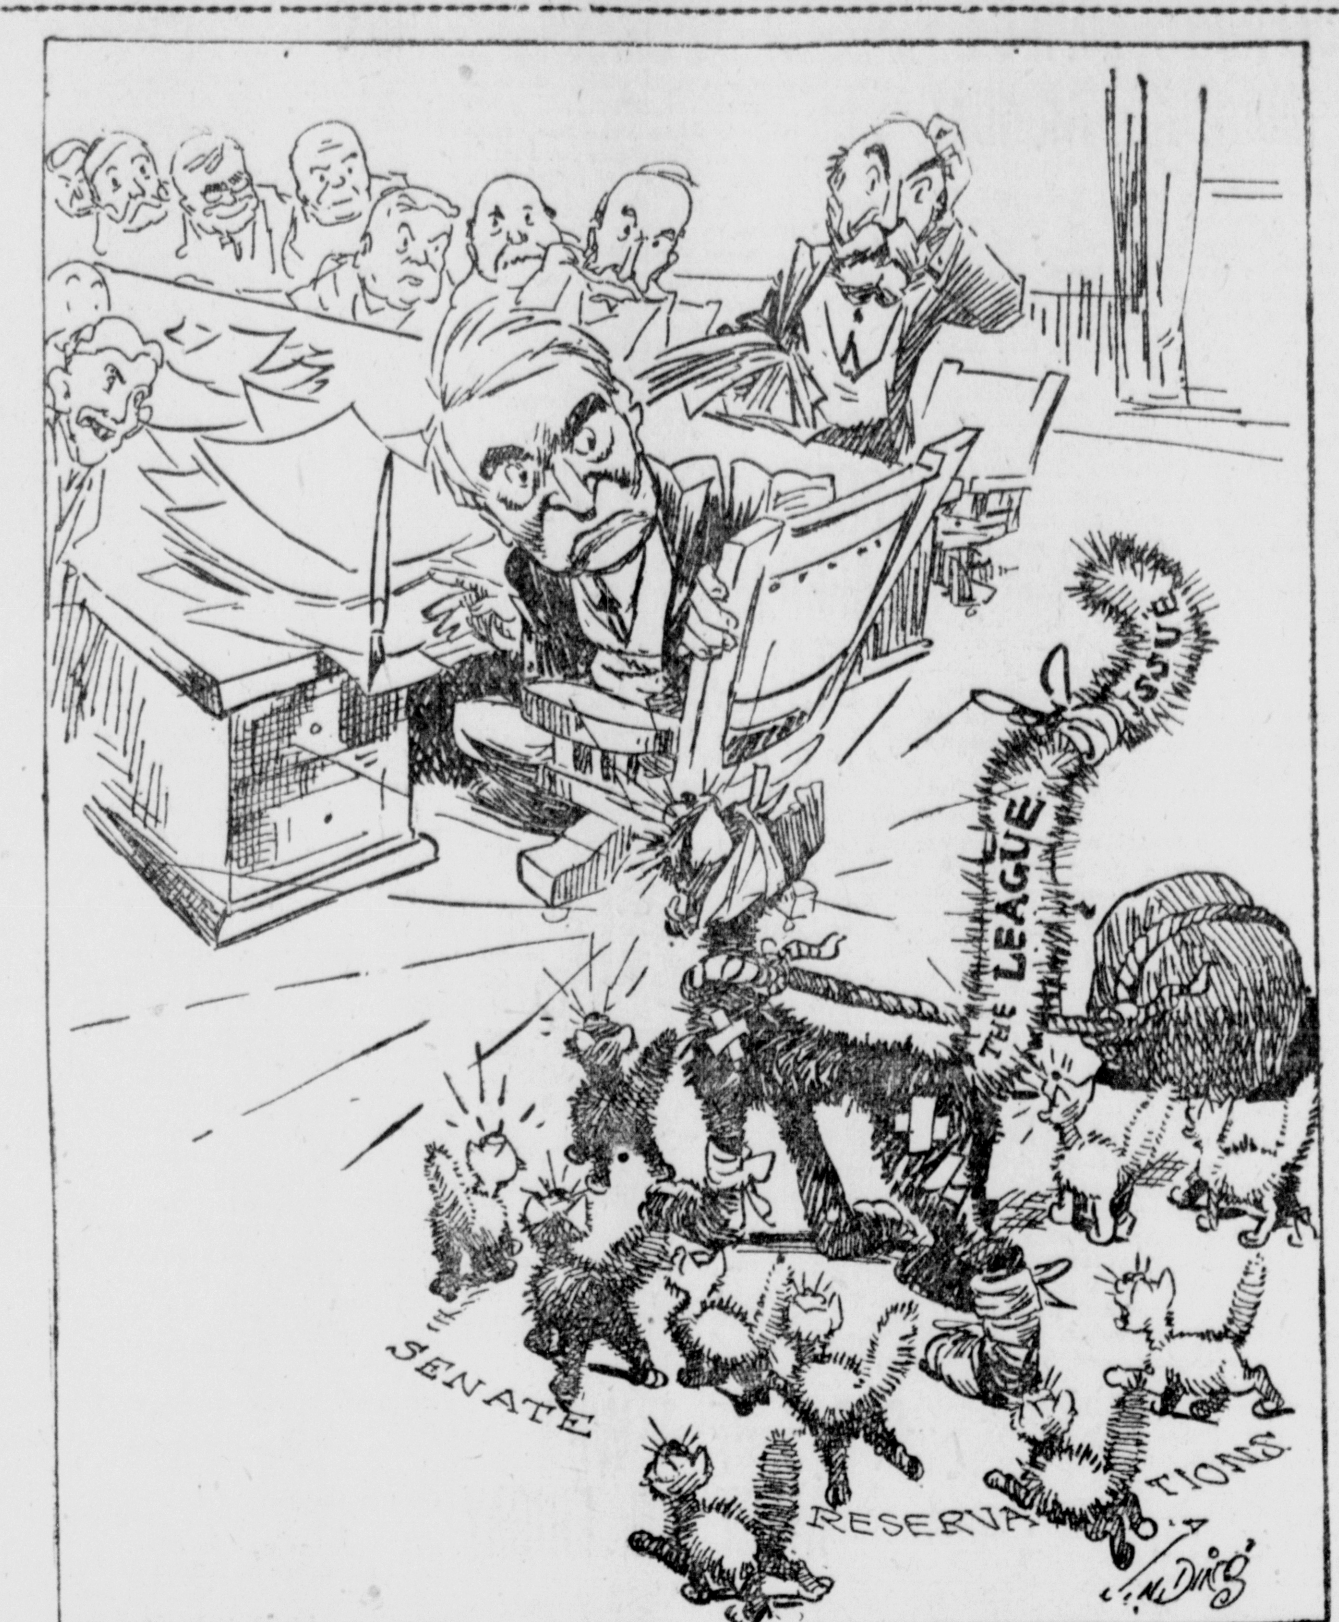

Rumors of war are often like back-fence gossip—they are the product of idle minds.

It is easy to say something mean about the other fellow, and that we suppose is why the knockers are in excess of the boosters.

Half a loaf may be better than none, but a half truth is more destructive than complete ignorance.

Time is the most valuable thing we possess, and yet the higher we rise, the poorer we become in that commodity.

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

It is probable that several Greene Countians will go to Oklahoma next summer when the government will open up three million acres of land for settlement. While it is understood that it will not be ready for opening until August next there have been a number of inquiries already made concerning it.

Mr. Thomas Moore, the general undertaker, has a birthday once a year along with the rest of the world and that came around again on Wednesday. Some of his friends remembered the fact, and a number of relatives celebrated the day with him at his home on West Main Street, where a first class dinner was served and good fellowship reigned.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Court Satterfield, a son.

Mr. Michael Dunn who for a number of years has been employed at the Farrel grocery, has given up his position.

HOLLOW PROMISES.

I hired a dozen delegates, at divers times, to prune my trees, and to do odd jobs on my estates, like washing dogs and herding bees; they vowed they'd come, these shiftless skates, with sounding oaths and hully chees. I had to do the work alone, for no one came to give me aid, though I was fixed with buck and bone, to see that laborers were paid; I had to lift a ton of stone and dig a posthole with a spade. No fellow cares to ply a tool, no toiler to the vineyard comes; there is more fun in playing pool or rolling bones down in the slums; and this is why, when nights are cool, the parks are full of busted bums. We read about the unemployed, and o'er their sufferings men sob; but all such tales are null and void, the empty frothings of the mob, and I would be quite overjoyed to find a man who wants a job. I'm weary and disheartened now, I've tried so long to find a guy who'll come around and paint the cow and make the trusty bucksaw fly; and all are ready with a vow, and every promise is a lie. Men break their pledges with a grin, when they should wring their hands and weep, and when they ought to toil and spin they calmly snuggle down to sleep; methinks that our besetting sin is making vows we do not keep.

Is It Yours?

THIS IS THE BIRTHDAY OF OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, JR. March 8, 1841

It is always interesting to examine the lives of great men's sons to see whether they inherited the father's genius. Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., built up a great reputation for himself, but along lines quite different from those which made his father famous.

He was born in Boston in 1841, and was graduated from Harvard college when he was 20 years old, receiving his diploma after he had already given up college in order to enlist in the army. He was a volunteer at the time in a battalion of infantry at Fort Independence.

He served with honor throughout the Civil War. He was wounded in the breast in Virginia, in the neck at Antietam, in the foot at Fredericksburg, then was put on the staff of General Wright. He was mustered out at the end of the war with the rank of Captain. He went back to Harvard immediately and began to study law.

He first practiced law with his brother then was made an instructor at Harvard college. He was sufficiently interested in literature, however to combine it to a certain extent with his law career. He became editor of a law magazine and author or editor of several books on law.

President Roosevelt appointed him Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1902. His legal opinions have always been given in fine clear literary language.

A WORLD WITHOUT ADVERTISING

Chaos
Horse Trades
Creamed Teeth
For Country Boys
A Waste of Time
AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

To realize the Value of Advertising—just imagine a world without it. There would be no standard of value. Petty cunning would have the strange hold on honest purpose. Sliding prices and special discounts would lure the buyer into thinking he had bought a bargain, when he had paid too much. The "Get All You Can" dealer with his policy of Caveat Emptor (let the buyer beware) might predominate over the one-price dealer whose policy is the square deal to all. No buyer would know what was the right price—or the fair value.

Prices on the same article in different localities would vary 100, 200 and 300 per cent, depending upon what the traffic could bear in each locality.

Every purchase would be like an old-fashioned horse trade, with the advantage on the side of the rapacious and avaricious.

The buyer and seller would be antagonists. Distrust and suspicion would replace confidence.

The seller would not have the advantage of building up business by selling brands of established value at the one fair price. Nor would the buyer have the protection which such brands offer.

There would be no uniformity of quality or value. There would be hundreds of brands where one exists now. This would mean higher production costs, higher selling cost, and difficulty of choice on the part of the buyer.

And "the get all you can" attitude of the "sliding price" dealer and the suspicious born of uncertainty on the part of the buyer would result in a haggling, bargaining method of buying and selling that wastes the most precious thing in the world—time.

Purchases that now take a moment or so would take hours.

No—the complex civilization of today is geared right into advertising. Economic necessity demands it. It changes uncertainty to certainty—Chaos to system, and under the daylight of truth furnishes the most economic system of distribution that has ever been devised.

The very people who short-sightedly call advertising unnecessary—the cracker box philosopher who say that advertising cost is added to the price of the merchandise—are benefiting from advertising in every purchase they made.

They are saving time—they are saving money, because advertising has stabilized values everywhere and lowered prices. Advertising protects them some way every day.

BEAUTY CHATS

ANSWERS TO LETTERS
Miss Blond—Do not pluck the eyebrows if they are inclined to swell. Usually this is a harmless, rather unnecessary method of achieving the present fashionable narrow eyebrow. If your brows are really too thick for beauty and plucking the hairs causes swelling, you can learn to clip the hairs off close to the surface of the skin and thus achieve the same effect.
Bright Eyes—Cocoa butter is an excellent flesh builder, but I would never advise it as a facial massage, because the complexion is usually very delicate and cocoa butter is too heavy for it. It can, however, be used as a massage for wrinkles, send me a letter, with a self-addressed stamped envelope enclosed and I will very gladly mail you one.
L. M.—It frequently happens that children with rather light hair grow up with hair several shades darker. If I were you, I would not try any artificial methods of bleaching the hair, except such harmless methods as frequent sun baths. You can, of course, add the juice of half a lemon or whole lemon to the last rinse water when you shampoo, or you can add a couple of tablespoons of peroxide. Either way will make the hair a shade lighter. But do not try to make your hair blonde. Undoubtedly the present color of your hair is much more becoming.
Harriet Jane—Thank you for your letter warning very young girls about too strict dieting, and reducing themselves to a state of anemia, in their attempts to acquire a very slim figure. I never advise reduction below the normal standard of weight which is, as you know, the healthiest one. Your case was very unusual. I have only come across a few like it. It is possible to reduce too much, but with every letter that I send out about reduction, I send a weight chart, so the reader can tell what she should weigh. I am sorry to say that the greatest difficulty I encounter is to persuade young girls to diet down to normal weight. Ice cream, candy and rich cake are so appealing to that period of youth.
Jeannette—I do not quite know what you mean by the dark ring around the mouth. If you mean the growth of dark fuzz over the upper lip, I would advise you to use peroxide as a bleach. If it is anything else why do not ask your family physician about it?

I Thank You—There are a great many things that can be done for an ugly nose, but what should be done depends upon the formation of the nose itself. If it is ugly to the point of deformity, a good facial specialist can help you. By proper methods of cleansing the skin, you can keep the nose better looking than if you allow blackheads and coarse pores.

What you should weigh depends on your height as well as your age. A girl 17 years of age, 5 feet 4 inches tall (which is an average height) should weigh about 123 pounds.

A cleansing cream containing vegetable oil will not grow hairs on the face unless there is a decided tendency toward this.
"Billie and Jack"—A girl of 16 with dark brown curly hair and dark blue eyes, will find both blues and brown becoming to her type. Dark blue will always make the eyes even more blue than they are and blue will also be very becoming, as will rose pink and pale green.

The 15 year old girl with straight light brown hair and grey eyes will look best in all shades of gray, blue, and rose. You are both old enough to wear your hair done up and you should choose a very simple girlish style.

The Markets

has made arrangements to finance wool growers who wish to hold for better times.

The past weeks brought two constructive developments from the farmer's standpoint. One is the final passage of the Emergency tariff measure, imposing high duties on important farm commodities, and the other the decision of the United States Supreme Court that the farm loan act is valid. An immediate issue of farm loan bonds will provide credit relief. Less immediate results may be expected of the Emergency tariff, as it will doubtless encounter a snag in the presidential veto, but the measure is significant as a suggestion of what Congress will do to protect the farmer in the enactment of a permanent tariff.

The Supreme Court holds that Congress had full authority to establish the federal land banks, providing farmers with readily accessible credits, and to exempt their bonds from taxation. The farm loan board will issue bonds to finance the hundreds of millions of dollars in loans which it has already approved and was forced to suspend. How rapidly the investment market will absorb these bonds at five per cent is a question. The bond market has been surfeited with huge issues but tax exempt securities have distinct attractions.

Rural constituencies were gratified at the Senate's action in passing the Agricultural appropriation bill with $41,000,000 for operation of the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year beginning next June, as against $32,000,000 provided for next year by the House. The Senate added such items as $114,000 for road material investigations and $100,000 for farm products. While the farmers are glad of this increased appropriation, they will ask that it be spent efficiently and without duplication of activity.

Implement dealers and manufacturers should mark their prices down to a level harmonious with prices of manufactured products and within gunshot of farm prices. The reason many tractors are not selling is that the manufacturers are reluctant to reduce prices substantially on the ground that wages have not changed appreciably. Wage deflation is the next step in after-war adjustment. Factory wages constitute the chief obstacle to progress in agriculture. Steel magnates are implicated.

The tractor has passed its experimental stage, as the National Tractor show at Columbus recently demonstrated. The business farmer

Grain

Little change was noted in the character of the wheat market at a midweek. The visible continued to decrease, while some export demand made itself felt. Sentiment mixed. Conflicting influences ve prices an erratic tendency. High will continue until something positive develops. No crop damage of such a nature as to give the market forward impetus has yet been reported. The statistical portion of wheat is strongly bullish while the international financial situation is bearish. Flour stocks are light. The end of the heavy inter corn movement is near and receipts are expected to fall off. Lay corn and oats usually gain during March and April.

Livestock

Livestock growers are hoping that the market will maintain with its consistency the improvement which marked the latter half of February. Apparently the worst is over. Live mutton got out of its rut in consequence of the re-export of much frozen lamb. Imports of foreign lamb have ceased. The hog market is making time until the early winter movement subsides, then an advance is probable. Heavy culls have been conspicuous in recent runs. Inquiry for stock cattle as quickened materially. Frenzied liquidation in the cattle market is less pronounced than heretofore.

Cotton

The cotton market during February was devoid of prominent features. The persistent tendency was downward and heavy liquidation came not only from domestic but from foreign holders. As the new crop approaches, southern growers are more disposed to sell. Southern banks increase their pressure. For the immediate present the outlook is not reassuring. Pessimism has been rampant. For the long pull confidence is somewhat evident, as indicated by the relative strength of the far months. Quotations are 70 per cent below last spring's figures. Crop preparations has increased 25 to 50 percent and average production at important mill centers is estimated as high as 75 per cent of capacity.

Eastern mill states have received less than half the amount of raw cotton that arrived last year, which explains the heavy accumulation in Southern primary markets.

Wool

American demand has been a strong supporting element in foreign markets. When it abated recently prices reacted. Efforts to advance domestic prices have met with scant success and interest slackened perceptibly as February comes to an end. On March 10 the government will auction off 6,000,000 pounds of wool. Western growers are more inclined to liquidate than heretofore in anticipation of the new clip, but the movement has not attained large proportions. The New Zealand government, it is of interest to note,

WANTS COURT RULING

Friday, March 5.—Common Pleas Judge William E. Duncan has been asked by Attorney George H. Phelps to rule on the legality of the new cost-plus street car franchise, passed February 14 by the city council, calling for 8 cent fare at the start, Phelps, in a suit attacking the franchise's validity, declared that the council has no authority to grant a commission created by the grant, power to regulate the company's finances. Five cent fare now prevails.

PARENT-TEACHER'S ASSOCIATION WILL NEED MORE FUNDS

The consideration of ways and means to replenish the treasury in order to continue the work of the Parent-Teachers Association of the Central School Grades was the chief topic under discussion at the meeting of the organization held Monday.

The report of the treasurer showed that the Association lacks funds with which to continue the work for more than a month, and for that reason it was decided to hold a community supper some time soon in order to raise money to replenish the treasury. The supper will be served at the Chamber of Commerce according to the plans now under consideration.

The report of Mrs. McEwen head of the opportunity school in the Christ Church Parish House showed that the work is marked with remarkable results in physical and mental welfare of the students. The warm noon lunch according to Mrs. McEwen's report was of distinct benefit to the children and was much appreciated by them.

The proposition of securing a piano for the Central School grades, which have been lacking an instrument for some time, was taken care of by the proposal of Mrs. D. J. Davies, made at the meeting. It is Mrs. Davies' plan that she furnish the school with a piano for the use of pupils, providing she retains the privilege of giving her music lessons at the school.

The weekly educational moving pictures shown at the McKinley Junior High School each Friday night will this week be for the benefit of the Central Grades it was announced at the meeting.

Dr. Harrigan's Advice To Nerve Exhausted People

It's worth your while to read what a New York specialist has to say about the nerve and brain cell builder that Sayre & Hemphill sell so much of these days. He writes:

"Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anaemic, or run-down, take natural unadulterated substa... as Birtro-Phosphate, and you will see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy and strength of body and mind.
Birtro-Phosphate is a pure organic phosphate such as good physicians prescribe to create abundant nerve force."

J. B. BICE ELECTED EXALTED RULER OF LOCAL ELK'S LODGE

Following one of the most interesting and hotly contested elections ever held in a Xenia lodge, J. B. Bice was elected Exalted Ruler, the highest rank in local Elksdom, at the regular election of Xenia Lodge, No. 668 B. P. O. Elks, held at the Elk's Home, Second and Whiteman streets, Monday evening.

The regular election was carried on through a system of official ballots, resembling the regular civic election ballots, and a ballot box was the receptacle for the votes.

J. B. BICE.

Mr. Bice, the new exalted ruler, will succeed Jacob Kany, who has guided the destinies of the local lodge through the past year, and who will now bear the title of Past Exalted Ruler. Mr. Kany was a candidate for re-election, but was defeated by ten votes. W. C. Hallisy, whose name was also on the ballot, withdrew before the balloting started.

Attorney Frank L. Johnson, was elected Esteemed Leading Knight, next in line to Exalted Ruler, over Paul B. Yockey, the only other candidate. Frank A. Jackson, defeated Esteemed Loyal Knight, who was in line for that position. The position of Esteemed Loyal Knight had been vacant since the death of Lester Johnson.

Clarence W. Fisher, was unopposed for the position of Esteemed Lecturing Knight, to which he was elected. R. C. Britton, defeated Paul B. Owens for secretary of the lodge by five votes. Mr. Owens was secretary during the past year, and was a candidate for re-election with Mr. Britton as his only opponent.

For the position of treasurer of the lodge J. W. Faulkner was elected over Omer Parker. Frank Edwards was elected to the position of tyler over Charles O. Weddle. The only other candidate, after William Dodds, had withdrawn his name for the position. W. B. Hill, Past Exalted Ruler, was elected Trustee, there being one to elect, over William Ambuhl, L. D. Wilson, H. W. Cleaver, the other candidate withdrew.

The new officers elected at the meeting will take their places at the first regular session, April 1, when the ceremonies seating them in their positions will be observed.

The result of the count was as follows: Bice 43, Kany 33; Johnson 54, Yockey 19; Jackson 59, Smith 16; Fisher 71; Britton 40, Owens 35; Faulkner 53, Parker 21; Edwards 37, Weddle 32; Hill 51, Ambuhl 19, Wilson 5.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients in a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Lemon Custard—Place in saucepan one and one-half cups of milk, two-thirds cups of sugar, four level tablespoons cornstarch. Stir to dissolve and then bring to a boil and cook for five minutes. Remove from the stove and place in a bowl and add rind of one lemon, strained juice of melted butter, yolks of two eggs. Beat well before adding to the custard. Bring to a boil again and then remove from the stove and beat in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Rinse custard cups with cold water and then pour in the mixture. Chill and turn from the cups and serve. Place a spoonful of orange jelly on top.

Cider Sauce—Place in a saucepan one cup of cider, four tablespoons brown sugar, one-half cup vinegar, one cup water, one-half teaspoon ginger, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, five tablespoons of cornstarch. Stir to dissolve the starch and then bring to a boil. Cook for ten minutes and then serve.

LENTEN SUGGESTIONS.
Egg and Cream Potpie—One and one-half teacups of flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teacup salt, cold water to form thick batter to drop from tablespoon into the cream sauce.

Cream Sauce: One cup of condensed cream with three cups of water (a little more if necessary), salt to taste. When the sauce is boiling drop in the dumplings and cook fifteen or twenty minutes.

Serve with the eggs on the same dish—five or six hard-boiled eggs quartered will be sufficient.

Cheese Slices—Cut the crust from thin slices of bread, cut in halves, cover with thin slices of cheese (cream cheese preferred), sprinkle with salt, paprika and cayenne; cover with another slice of bread and fry in butter until browned.

Cheese Patties—Have ready one-half cup grated cheese, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons of flour, one cup milk, four eggs, salt and pepper, and rich pie crust.

Melt butter in saucepan, stir in flour and add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Let cook a few minutes. Cool slightly and stir in the yolks of eggs. Cook gently but do not let boil. Add cheese, salt and pepper and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten till stiff and dry. Line individual pans with rich crust rolled thin, fill with cheese mixture and bake in a quick oven.

Cottage Cheese and Peanut Salad—Drain cottage cheese thoroughly and moisten with sour cream; add one-third cup of chopped peanuts and salt to taste. Shape in balls and serve on crisp lettuce leaves and French dressing.

DISCOVERIES.
Cover mouse holes with tar paper. Mice do not like the smell of tar and will disappear.

Paint spots on window panes can be removed with cloth wet with hot vinegar.

THE WOMAN HE MARRIED

A CRY FOR HELP

The years spent in New York seemed very distant, and I had grown careless in writing to Mrs. Gray. But in my need her sweet motherly face came before me, and thoughts of her as the one person in the world who could help me filled my mind.

I wrote asking her to make me a visit. I did not realize until I heard from her husband that she was ill and could not take such a journey, how much I had depended upon her coming. I could hope for help from no one. I must fight my trouble, attack my problem alone.

I felt almost sure that as long as Junior was at home Dick would not see as much of Juanita as he had before he came. I started at once to put into execution a plan I had formulated.

"I'm going over to Aunt Nita's, Junior," I remarked. "Don't you and father want to go with me?"

"I'll go!" Junior replied, but Dick excused himself.

As tactfully as I could, turned the conversation upon Dick. I told Juanita I suspected he was not well that he was unlike himself.

"If I did not know him so well, I would think he was getting silly in his old age," I said when Junior had gone out on the porch with Juanita's pomegranate. "He acts as if he were in love."

"What do you mean?" Juanita had flushed.

"Just what I say, Dick is a peculiar temperament. He changed in many ways when he lived on the desert so long. He is easily affected by colors, by anything which appeals to his sense of beauty, of rhythm. But this only lasts while he is with the person, or in the place where he is so affected. As soon as he is away, he is himself again."

"You mean he is fickle?" a puzzled look on her face.

"That's no name for it," I declared laughing, but relieved at Junior's re-appearance. I had "started something" as he would have said.

When he reached home Dick was on the porch, an open letter in his hand, a look of discouragement on his face.

"What is it Dick?" I asked.

"Read that!" he replied shortly, handing me the letter. It was a short one from the publisher to whom he had submitted his manuscript. The book was not suitable for their readers, and so they would have to return it, et cetera.

I could have sung aloud for joy. The "and so forth" had been a short but rather scathing criticism of some of the descriptions and characters, most of which had been furnished by Juanita.

"It would have been all right if you had written it alone," I said as I returned the letter. "But a woman who is as prone to exaggeration as Juanita, cannot help but ruin any serious undertaking."

"Why didn't you say so before?" It was almost a rebuke. "And what do you mean by exaggeration?"

"Just what the word means. In dress, in manner, in all she does, she is an exaggeration of self. To be really helpful, one cannot think of making an impression all the time, whether that impression is on one person, or upon the public."

"I thought you liked her."

"I do," it was excusable to lie in such a cause, "but that doesn't blind me. She is fascinating that many women would consider her dangerous. Yet one would tire of her just as one tires of some exotic plant. But why are we so seriously discussing Juanita?" I had made up my mind to discuss her with him constantly, him with her. In trying to do.

"I thought you liked her."

"I do," it was excusable to lie in such a cause, "but that doesn't blind me. She is fascinating that many women would consider her dangerous. Yet one would tire of her just as one tires of some exotic plant. But why are we so seriously discussing Juanita?" I had made up my mind to discuss her with him constantly, him with her. In trying to do.

again. "You mean he is fickle?" a puzzled look on her face.

"That's no name for it," I declared laughing, but relieved at Junior's re-appearance. I had "started something" as he would have said.

When he reached home Dick was on the porch, an open letter in his hand, a look of discouragement on his face.

"What is it Dick?" I asked.

"Read that!" he replied shortly, handing me the letter. It was a short one from the publisher to whom he had submitted his manuscript. The book was not suitable for their readers, and so they would have to return it, et cetera.

I could have sung aloud for joy. The "and so forth" had been a short but rather scathing criticism of some of the descriptions and characters, most of which had been furnished by Juanita.

"It would have been all right if you had written it alone," I said as I returned the letter. "But a woman who is as prone to exaggeration as Juanita, cannot help but ruin any serious undertaking."

"Why didn't you say so before?" It was almost a rebuke. "And what do you mean by exaggeration?"

"Just what the word means. In dress, in manner, in all she does, she is an exaggeration of self. To be really helpful, one cannot think of making an impression all the time, whether that impression is on one person, or upon the public."

"I thought you liked her."

"I do," it was excusable to lie in such a cause, "but that doesn't blind me. She is fascinating that many women would consider her dangerous. Yet one would tire of her just as one tires of some exotic plant. But why are we so seriously discussing Juanita?" I had made up my mind to discuss her with him constantly, him with her.
